

PRIME MINISTER ST. LAURENT

August Election PM's Answer?

BY VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Desirability of calling an immediate general election because of the upheaval in the Commons is receiving consideration by Prime Minister St. Laurent and his government.

The cabinet met in unusual session Saturday. Again Sunday some members of the cabinet conferred to consider government strategy for the ensuing week—a most critical one for the administration.

Dissolution this week would mean an election called during the week of Aug. 13.

“VERY UPSET”

Prime Minister St. Laurent is known to be very upset and gravely disturbed over the scenes witnessed in the Commons last week. He reportedly is prepared to dissolve the House if the Commons again shows signs of becoming a shambles.

The government would go to the voters presumably on the grounds that the actions of the opposition have made it impossible for the government to properly conduct the affairs of the country.

The government is concerned that the opposition's efforts may succeed in postponing passage of the Trans-Canada Pipe Line legislation until after June 7. There were reports today that some of the Conservative senators in the Upper House intend to stage a last ditch attempt to stall the bill. It has been taken for granted that the Senate would pass the bill with little or no difficulty.

The administration is also worried that the Progressive Conservatives and CCF, aroused by the government's heavy-handed tactics of last week, may decide to fight all government legislation for the remainder of the session. The inflammatory scenes of last week—Friday particularly—make it difficult for Mr. Speaker to control the House.

INTOLERABLE?

The government has to have funds voted by Parliament under an interim supply bill to be introduced this week. If the PCs and CCF buck that bill, the government may again have to resort to closure to get the legislation passed.

Prime Minister St. Laurent then may decide the situation has become intolerable and order dissolution.

There is a tenseness on Parliament Hill as the critical week begins.

The two opposition parties are convinced that the St. Laurent administration has “lost face” with the Canadian voters by the happenings in the House last week. They are not prepared for an election but they believe they will never have a better issue on which to appeal to the voters to turn out to the government. They are anxious for a test at the polls.

The word has gone out to the Liberal, Conservative, CCF and Social Credit organizations to start preliminary preparations for a federal election. Holiday plans are cancelled. Extra staff was being advised to hold themselves in readiness. Initial steps to secure radio and TV time and to re-arrange advertising schedules were being taken.

There has been no election call yet—but the political organizations are taking no chances.

Peking was an ideal place for a woman with time on her hands and a secret sorrow in her heart.

I never made an analysis of the exact proportions of the sexes, but my impression is that the bachelors outnumbered the unmarried women by a ratio of at least 10 to one, and considering the natural proclivity of the male, there were occasions when the ratio seemed nearer 1,000 to one.

In such a situation it was almost impossible for a woman, unless disgraced by a hare-lip or the possession of two heads, to feel neglected or unwanted. To be sure, the incidence of honorable men with dishonorable intentions was undoubtedly higher than a Kansas Sunday school teacher of that period might knowingly have tolerated for long, but such perils, if prudently recognized in advance, are readily manageable.

Censure Motion Before Commons

‘Defilement of Rules’ Charged to Beaudoin

BULLETIN

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Drew demanded of Prime Minister St. Laurent that he dissolve Parliament and call an immediate general election.

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Drew today described an act by Commons Speaker Rene Beaudoin on Friday as “a defilement of our rules.”

Mr. Drew, opening Commons debate on his motion to have Speaker Beaudoin censured, referred to Mr. Beaudoin's decision at the opening of Friday's sitting to rule out of order the motion by Colin Cameron (CCF, Nanaimo), made Thursday night to censure two letters to the editor printed in Ottawa Journal.

The Opposition leader said the Speaker had no right to withdraw Mr. Cameron's motion from the consideration of the Commons. The Speaker on Thursday night had accepted the motion and in fact had “guided” its framing by Mr. Cameron.

CONFIDENCE LOST

On Friday, the Speaker had called an immediate vote on an appeal of his ruling against Mr. Cameron's motion without hearing members who wanted to raise points of order or comment on “this completely strange device.”

“At that moment confidence in the Speaker disappeared in the minds of many members of the House,” Mr. Drew said.

Debate on the censure motion was “the first business of the Commons as it started today's sitting.”

Mr. Beaudoin himself read the terms of the motion, then, without protest from any direction, Mr. Drew was allowed to begin speaking on it.

The motion asks that the Speaker be censured by the Commons because the House “no longer has any confidence in its president officer.”

“UTMOST REGRET”

Mr. Drew said he presented his motion with full recognition of its seriousness. It indicated the nature of the tragedy in the Commons, he said.

The Speaker had been held in high regard and deep affection by most members. It was with the “utmost regret” on the part of Mr. Drew and others that the motion should be found necessary at this time.

Mr. Drew spoke at the House opening with the galleries jammed with spectators. Hundreds were turned away.

The government in essence yielded the floor to Mr. Drew. There was a prior motion under which the government could have gained the floor to ask for third and final reading of its pipeline bill.

FIRST OF KIND

The censure motion is the first of its kind in Canadian parliamentary history. If accepted by the House, it would mean the downfall of the 44-year-old speaker.

Mr. Drew's motion in its entirety:

“In view of the unprecedented action of Mr. Speaker in a properly reversing his own decision without notice and without giving any opportunity for discussion; (b) repeatedly refusing to allow members to address the House on occasions when the rules provide that they have the right to be heard; (c) subordinating the rights of the House to the will of the government, this House resolves that it no longer has any confidence in its presiding officer.”

The House was hushed as he began his remarks.

The opposition leader said that the motion would not be before the Commons “if it were not for the fact that continuing confidence in the office of the speaker and continuing confidence in the present speaker have been challenged by events of the last few days.”

Mr. Drew said there is “a very real sense of a breach” which, has occurred between Speaker Beaudoin and many of the members.

QUEEN OFF TO SWEDEN; FROGMEN CHECK YACHT

STOCKTON-ON-TEES, Eng. (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh sailed from this northeast port tonight in the royal yacht Britannia for a three-day state visit to Sweden.

Their departure followed a lightning tour earlier today of Stockton and other nearby industrial towns, during which a massive security force threw a discreet protective net around the Royal Couple to protect them from Cypriot extremists.

Frogmen dived beneath the hull of the royal yacht Britannia to satisfy themselves that no time mechanisms had been attached to the vessel before the Queen sailed.

Plane Joins Search In Farm Tragedy

(From BUP and CP Dispatches)

STETTILER, Alta.—RCMP today pressed a widening search for John Clark, 41, missing MLA, wanted for questioning in connection with the mass gun-slaying of seven persons Sunday in his farm home.

An aircraft was scheduled to aid ground search parties in their efforts to locate the missing man. Already two police dogs and all available RCMP officers were spreading out across the rolling farmland of Clark's 1,000-acre property near Buffalo Lake in a thinly-populated section of central Alberta.

The Social Credit backbencher for Stettler constituency who has not been seen since Saturday, is wanted for questioning by the police in connection with the multiple murder.

Found dead, shot through the head with bullets from a .22-calibre rifle, were:

Mrs. Clark, 36.

Girl Dying as Police Arrived

Reconstructing the crime, police presented this theory: Anderson rose about 7 a.m. and went out to work. The four children got up shortly after and dressed. They began making their breakfasts and bowls of cereal were on the table. Other preparations were made in the kitchen. Then the slayings took place.

Three blood stains in the grass at various points in the yard indicate three children were killed outside, police said. One blood spot was inches away from the front steps of the house, another near the rear door and the third near a wood pile a few feet away from the house.

“Olah, in an upstairs bedroom, and Mrs. Clark, in her downstairs room, apparently were shot as they slept, an officer said. The fourth child was shot in the house.

It was not determined whether Anderson heard the shooting and ran to the house or accidentally stumbled into the death chamber. Police said there were indications he walked into the building through the back door and was shot through the head as he approached the living room.

SHOT IN SLEEP

There was no sign of a struggle in the faded-yellow, two-story frame farmhouse that is almost obscured from the adjacent road by a high hedge around the freshly-cut lawn.

At the rear of the attractive, six-room house set atop a knoll overlooking Buffalo lake were three full milk cans. The cows in the adjoining barn had been milked. Beside the house was a new automobile and a truck belonging to Clark.

Was Campaigning in Saskatchewan

The big farm—almost two sections of land—has been the home of Clark, part-time school teacher and farmer, for most of his 41 years. It was there that he planned the campaign that brought him election to the legislature in 1952 and re-election in 1955.

It was from there, too, that he left two weeks ago to take part on behalf of Social Credit in the Saskatchewan election campaign. He was to have gone back to Saskatchewan June 1 but did not make his scheduled appearance.

Inspector Laberge said a single-shot, .22-calibre rifle borrowed from an uncle by Clark some time ago was located but that it was not the gun used in the slayings.

The multiple slaying was among the most gruesome in western Canada in recent years. It recalled that of last July in Melville, Sask., when five members of a farm family were slain one by one during a family dispute. The convicted slayer, John Petlock, was sentenced to life imprisonment for manslaughter.

CYPRIOT TERRORIST ORGANIZATION CRACKED

LONDON (CP)—Cyprus Governor Sir John Harding began crucial talks today on the future of the island colony. He was shielded from possible Cypriot assassination attempts by a bodyguard of six armed detectives.

His talks with Prime Minister Anthony Eden and Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd began on the announcement that British troops have cracked Cyprus' small but deadly underground organization, EOKA, with the arrest of 17 of its leaders.

Youth, 18, Shot in Back, Plays Possum, Gets Police

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) —An 18-year-old youth, shot in the back and left for dead by Cypriot terrorists, crawled into a church and lit candles to summon police to the scene of an ambush.

A member of the British security forces was killed in the attack.

Two members of the security forces were walking with the youth, son of a third security trooper, when the attack came near Britain's $13,000,000 military base at Dhékella. In a spray of bullets one man fell dead. The other escaped.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O GOD we pray today for those whom we have set in authority. May the recriminations and the bitterness be banished from their deliberations as they seek the general good of all. Let them have the wisdom and strength to do the right thing that we may not be shamed before posterity; through Jesus Christ. Amen.

Going Up

MUNICIPAL TAX BILLS ARE reaching Greater Victoria homes and owners are noting the higher amounts they must pay.

In each of the four districts, Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt, the levy—that is the amount raised by taxation—is higher in total than last year. In no case does the revenue from taxes on new buildings meet the increase.

	Victoria	Saanich	Oak Bay	Esquimalt
1956 levy	$2,500,000	$1,746,461	$740,027	$227,900
1955 levy	2,250,743	1,137,188	674,343	223,800
1956 increase	250,257	609,273	66,684	4,100
Estimated taxes on new buildings	$9,000	143,000	39,000	8,500

Costs of municipal services, including education, are going up. The demands on the property-owner are greater. And those demands are not appreciably reduced by the growth of the communities and the larger number of home-owners sharing the load.

It is, on the evidence, a fallacy to assume that because more people are settling in the different parts of Greater Victoria that they automatically furnish enough revenue to meet the increase.

This is a point which must be kept in mind in any consideration of Provincial Government help to the municipalities. Under the complex formula introduced last year, Premier Bennett inferred that his administration was caring more adequately for municipal government. The fact is that he and his government have failed to give sufficient aid.

Old and New

IT HAD BEEN SPECULATED for some months that Mr. V. M. Molotov, the Soviet Foreign Minister, was threatened with dismissal. He was the last of the old Bolsheviks still in office, in a regime where to be of the past often means that you will not be of the future.

When last October, Mr. Molotov publicly admitted in a magazine article that he had committed a grave error in ideology it appeared to be only a matter of time until the formal announcement of his dismissal was received. This has now been made public.

The Foreign Minister's error lay in suggesting that the Soviet Union has not yet fully established socialism, whereas the official line is that this first stage is completed and the country is well on the way to full communism.

The slip had occurred in a speech during the previous February. Obviously it had been kept in reserve for eight months and sprung on Molotov when the time was ripe.

Under the Stalin administration the process would have been much more brutal. Exile or death might well have followed criticism by the Kremlin. But the new regime used gentler methods.

Mr. Molotov has been removed from his foreign ministry office, but he still retains prestige and power as vice-premier of the country. His Nor will his proposal to pay taxes on the first $1,000 or $2,000 assessment help the municipal-councils of Greater Victoria.

It will, in part, alter the distribution of taxes, since the province can collect money from sources other than real estate—the basis on which the city raises so large a part of its funds.

His plan will actually require most tax-payers to meet their municipal obligations partly from another pocket. In the main, they will be the same people who pay, whether the funds go first to the province in sales tax, or directly to the municipal tax collector.

Whatever the source, the municipalities will not benefit. Nothing extra is being given to them under the scheme.

The answer to another important question is suggested in the figures above. They show that the gross amount municipalities require from their residents is going up. If the province relieves the individual taxpayer of part of that burden by an ostensible bonus, how long will it be before the municipalities absorb that saving?

What assurance is there that if a man's total taxes are $150 and the province pays $25 of them, that the municipality will leave the home-owner's direct payments at $125?

The comparison between taxes this year and last in Greater Victoria indicates the answer.

removal from his ministerial position follows the pattern of Mr. Malenkov's similar readjustment. The latter was adjudged a failure as minister of agriculture but was given other duties in charge of electrical power and received considerable prominence during his recent visit to Britain.

The world has become so used to viewing shifts in the Soviet regime as evidence of deeper tensions and developments that a simple rearrangement, quite justified on other grounds, could be misinterpreted.

Thus the latest change could be merely a deserved reward for Mr. Molotov's successor, Dmitri Shepilov. The new minister was editor-in-chief of Pravda, was increasingly involved in governmental affairs, and scored a great coup by being instrumental in selling communist arms to Egypt and thus stirring up the whole Middle East situation to Russia's advantage. Mr. Shepilov was one of the Kremlin party which visited Belgrade last year.

He appears to be a shrewd executive, well versed in Kremlin theories and methods, and carrying the confidence of Mr. Khrushchev and other key Moscow officials. His appointment may indicate a continuance of Moscow's currently intense interest in the Mediterranean area, and forecast further communist developments there.

Joint City Hall?

THERE IS A GOOD, NEIGHBORLY spirit shown by Saanich and Victoria in their arrangement to discuss construction of a joint city-municipal hall.

Certainly the project is worth study. Both need larger and better quarters. Both appreciate the costs of new buildings. And both, presumably, have an eye to future developments when some sort of joint administration may be established for the Greater Victoria community.

The fact that representatives of the two governing bodies can get together for such discussion is encouraging. They are showing an attitude which promises to overcome one of the unjustified obstacles to joint action.

There is room for debate on the type of administration members of the Greater Victoria family should adopt. There is no justification for the municipal position which rejects the question out of hand purely on a parochial basis.

Whether or not some concrete arrangement is reached on the question, the mere fact that amicable discussion is possible shows a mature outlook noticeably lacking in inter-municipal affairs for too long.

And while Victoria and Saanich talk over the subject of a joint hall, they should include, in any planning they undertake, room for the eventual admission of Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

Good News for Television

THE NATIONAL BROADCASTING Company offers a brighter and better picture for television.

The company's close study of audience response has confirmed it in the view that "good" programs are good business," according to Thomas McAvity vice-president in charge of the NBC Television network.

This concept, he says, has "challenged some of the oldest dogmas of the business. It has shown, for instance, that aiming at a low level of taste is not the best way to attract big audiences, and that ratings are not the only measurement of advertising effectiveness."

"We have proved," adds Mr. McAvity, "that, generally speaking, the best show gets the biggest audiences. 'Peter Pan,' starring Mary Martin, was seen in its first telecast by 67 million viewers, the largest audience ever to tune into a single-network program. Sir Laurence Olivier's 'Richard III' drew nearly 50 million viewers, a record for daytime television."

This should be encouraging for all those who have lamented the low comedy and poor material which so frequently makes its way to the view screen.

NBC, acting on its recent findings, may be expected in future to try to appeal to a larger number of people—the consuming public which pays the advertising firms through the purchases it makes—on the basis of a higher standard of production.

Instead of stressing the lowest common denominator, emphasis, it appears, will be laid on the highest common factor.

The Truck That's Mostly Horn

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

WHILE looking through my new subatomic microscope this morning I discovered some tiny organisms called frants. These are the things that make people frantic. I will not destroy your appetite by describing them. Suffice it to say that they are hideous and sinister, and disgusting past all belief. Looked at through the right sort of microscope, a man full of frants looks very like an old mattress filled with thousands of piebald rats, a-heaving and a-heaving. Even a man from Mars would think twice before taking a second peek at them. I shall take a few pictures of them, however. These pictures will prove invaluable when I write some little book or other on how to spread frants and influence no-good people.

Frants are related to, but not the same as, those little creatures called hecits. Hecits are the things that make you hectic. We are fond of saying that days or circumstances are hectic, but that is only a fashion of talk... the hecits are really inside yourself. They are very like tiny shipworms or teredos in your personality. They are known to behave in a frightfully psychosomatic manner, though some of them contain more psychosomes than others. The females always contain one more psychosome than the males.

HOW TO RELAX

AND talking of people who are badly infested with frants and hecits, so that they damage their hearts and ulcers and minds, and generally ruin their whole internal set-up, I was reading an article on how to relax. (Who wasn't? Everyone has always just finished an article on how to relax. There are so many of these articles, you can't relax.) The woman who wrote the thing said that a famous Heart Specialist told her that if a man brings work home from the office, he is threatening himself with tension and therefore with heart disease. He should leave his work at the office.

He said a lot of other things that were very sensible... such as the sad and unfair fact that tension in the home depends entirely on the wife. (He did not say it was unfair, and tough on the wife. Just said it was a fact. It is both.)

AS the wise woman told the boy Kim, there are only two sorts of women: those who take strength out of a man and those who put strength in. If you are naturally the strength-giving sort, it isn't tough on you... far from it. But if you have to try to change yourself into one, and if the guy you are trying to strengthen is no good anyhow, then it may be a bit of a private strain on you, no? Yes. And if you show it, you are letting the old team down! He also said that when a husband gets home, he should not immediately be greeted with ten million small grumbles. And neither should he be dragged out to endless parties, or invited to share the planning of costly purchases leading up to financial suicide. He and the writer didn't phrase it exactly like this, but this is what they meant, and it makes sense.

AS for the husband never bringing in work home, though... well, it all depends. Depends on what the house is like, what he is like, what the work is, what shape the work is in, and so on. I can picture men driven frantic, crammed solid with frants, by not bringing a little work home now and then. I can see them arriving at the office next day and taking three hours to get into the vein again, into the mood, when they could have polished the stuff off in half an hour after dinner. Myself, I find I work best at nine in the morning... I do better work and do it faster. At night I am apt to be slow, wordy, and not always on the ball. But lots of chaps work just the other way. And even I find it useful and soothing to finish a job at night, often enough, so as to start next day all fresh and relaxed.

FROM my own experience, I don't think it is always a good thing to go straight to bed after using the old brain. But in between late work and bed, you can always read a little puffie and eat a little supper to drag the blood down from the head to the stomach. But night-work needn't always be brain-work anyhow. And, contrariwise, a little so-called relaxation with an "improving" book can be far more disturbing, late at night, than any familiar routine of work. If the book is good, you run the risk of cogitation and (heaven help us) even ratiocination. If, as is much more likely, it is bad, it makes you angry, frustrated, worried, and much else, and you spend your restful evening in correcting the author mentally as you go along, and this is tough work without any apparent compensation.

LOCK OUT

THREE times in the past week people have asked me if there is such a thing as a TV set with a lock on it. And, if not, why not? In my own household there are locks on the deep-freeze and on chests of drawers and on a typewriter and so on. Oddly enough, our piano has no lock, but it should have one... most have. I can lock my briefcase and my car and a dozen other chattels. If I am forced into buying a TV set... and that day, may dawn, "I dawn" is the word I want... then I want a lockable one. Cabinet makers, step this way, please, and minister to my cabinet. You shall be cabinet ministers of justice, of culture, and of public safety.

Science and Religion

Whilst having profound respect for Dr. Albert Einstein, physicist, scholar, saint; we do not blindly follow all he expresses. Like him, we would not be drawn toward religion that teaches fear. However it seems nonsense to assume man cannot personally use God, Whom by seeking, he found.

When the good doctor states it is a miracle to comprehend natural phenomena, we attribute comprehension to that divine interference with nature, which grows, in man, the benign tumor cerebral-cortex; with which, human mind attunes the Mind which permeates the total universe.

Trade and Ideology

These are the days of "big business"—some of it very big indeed and we have to think not only nationally but continentally.

As a result, or rather an illustration, of this I would like to draw attention to a situation which appears to me to be developing with great rapidity. Two new world powers, both of them with enormous undeveloped resources have appeared on the scene. These powers are, of course, Russia and China. Also India is rapidly assuming the position of a world power.

Trade with India is not hampered by barriers and it is beginning to appear likely that the barriers against trade with China and Russia will be largely removed.

I would think that to keep these countries supplied with all that they would like to buy would keep all the factories in Great Britain and Western Europe fully occupied for many years. In return these communistic countries could supply very nearly everything in the way of food and raw materials that Europe needs.

Looked upon as a business combine, Europe, Asia and Africa will be a much bigger affair than even North and South America together. The result of this situation will surely be that, in order not to be left out of all these tremendous developments both the U.S.A. and the Canadian tariffs will have to be cut quite drastically.

If I am correct in these suggestions surely the sooner we begin to face this new situation the better.

A Peek at the Next in Line

BY GERARD FAY, London Editor of The Manchester Guardian

THE Eden government having just passed its first birthday and Parliament being back after the short Whitsun rest we are already, in London, settling down to another round of the same old questions: "Can Eden last?" "Are the Tories finished?" "Why can't Gaitskill do better?" Most of the time the questions are rhetorical because the interrogators have made up their minds and closed them to any unsatisfactory answer but still the questions reverberate around Westminster and not much help in answer.

Eden can be expected from the professional political commentators, either from their own inclination or because their employers prefer it that way, few of these clever gentry ever take an unbiased look at anything within a mile radius of No. 10 Downing Street.

So the wise citizen does not believe everything he reads and makes up his own mind in whatever mystical way is used by electorates for coming to conclusions on things they know nothing about.

At present the wise citizen seems to be thinking on the lines: "Don't shoot Eden, he's doing his best," in mutinous and insolent disregard of instructions given early in the year by Mr. Randolph Churchill, pillar of conservatism, steady rock of journalism. His point was that the P.M. was certainly doing his best and as that best wasn't good enough he ought to be slung out on his elegant ear.

Apart from following him by car during his whistlestop tour last summer I've seen Eden four times since, on private occasions lasting about thirty minutes each, and I have had the liveliest feeling that the tenant of No. 10 is not at all the comic or pathetic figure his enemies would like to believe him—and not all the most virulent of these enemies are on the opposition side of the House.

Stresses and Strains

Nor are all the whisperers politicians: some are civil servants. They speak behind their hands of intolerable stresses and strains between the ministries and they let it be known in Fleet Street, in the Reform Club and other places where influence and interest meet that Anthony is absolutely impossible.

Wise citizen gets the benefit of this only quite indirectly, but even so seems remarkably unmoved.

Naturally it makes him wonder a little about who might replace the Prime Minister if uneasiness were more marked and the malcontents more powerful. Macmillan the east-iron chancellor? Selwyn Lloyd, the invisible Foreign Secretary? Or Richard Austen Butler the Lord High Everything Else in the cabinet nowadays?

There was a time when Mr. Churchill was still at the top but distinctly shaky in health and Mr. Eden was a very sick man indeed. Then it was taken for

Too Many Dogs

May I be permitted to draw attention to the numbers of nondescript and other dogs in closely populated residential districts in Victoria.

These animals are allowed to roam uncontrolled and many rush out of gardens to fly at those passing—snapping and sometimes biting. They bark all day and in some cases all night, and are absolutely uncontrolled. They are a menace to the public and motorists and in some cases serious accidents occur in trying to avoid running over them. There is evidently no law to suppress this menace.

Eighty per cent of those people who own these animals evidently know nothing about dogs—or how to control them. I don't suppose they even have proper sanitary quarters for them. Dogs should have proper quarters, proper food and proper attention, and be taken out for exercise and not left to roam and be a menace to the public.

The number allowed in closely populated residential districts should be strictly limited. It is at present excessive. Dogs can carry disease the same as human beings. I notice hardly any dogs wear collars. I suppose they have to be licenced? There is evidently slackness somewhere.

Fifty per cent of the dogs in Victoria should be destroyed. Also there is such a thing as rabies, especially during the abnormally hot weather.

Baldness, Too

In view of the widespread interest in fluoridation, it is interesting to have medical opinion as expressed in an article in the Journal of the American Medical Ass., of Feb. 10, 1951 as follows:

"The toxicity of fluorine compounds has been encountered in its use as insect sprays, roach powders and rodenticides... hydrofluoric and hydrofluosilicic acids and their more soluble salts cause necrosis (bone rot) and ulceration with subsequent sloughing and slowly healing yellowish ulcers... ocular effects include ulceration of the conjunctivae (eyeball membranes), light sensitivity and oral poisoning results in symptoms referable primarily to the gastrointestinal tract and central nervous system... chronic intoxications resulting from prolonged intake of smaller amounts of fluorides include dental fluorosis... fluorine also tends to accumulate in bones, ligaments and tendons become calcified... serious symptoms may ensue like loss of joint mobility, easy fracture and pressure on spinal cord... other effects include alopecia (baldness) in young men... anemia (insufficient red blood cells) and decreased blood clotting power due to binding calcium... in women, dysmenorrhea (painful menstruation), alterations in growth and weight, lowered birth rate, high incidence of fracture, thyroid alterations and liver damage."

Is any further proof required of the harmful effects of this poisonous chemical?

Graduation

I MAY be way off the beam, but it seems to me that, for a lot of adults, the modern graduation high jinks have developed into a cross between a headache and a great big laugh.

I never went to high school in this country so perhaps my idea of graduation is quite false. I have always thought of it as a night when teachers, parents and students rejoiced because that particular group of young had achieved a certain standard of education, and were moving on from one phase of their development to another which involves almost adult responsibilities.

Graduation, I thought, was a happy time with solemn undertones.

But it is nowadays? I suggest it is nothing of the sort.

I suggest that it's degenerated into an excuse for giving after-party parties, over-expensive clothes and highly expensive presents to students who, in many cases, have NOT achieved the required standard of education.

Some have undoubtedly achieved the required standard. Their grades have been sufficiently good for them to be recommended. Therefore they do not have to write exams.

But a lot of others have slopped along, having such a wonderful social life that they haven't reached the required standard. They will have to write exams.

And the silly part is that those examinations will, for the most part, not be written until AFTER graduation. They may pass the exams. They may not. But, in the meantime, they'll share in the honor and glory with the brighter or more hard-working students.

This strikes me as just plain stupid. And unfair. It makes a mockery of the whole business.

In the "Good old days"—and in this respect they WERE the good old days—a high school graduation dance was sufficient celebration for the young.

Ruth

Nowadays, a lot of students expect a party to follow the school graduation party. Very few parents approve of this. High school principals are against it. The police have their ideas on unchaperoned parties in public places.

This paper has had an editorial stating that, however innocent and chaperoned, the all-night after-party party may be, it is still a lot of nonsense on the grounds of physical health alone. Especially for those with important exams still looming up.

In spite of this the fight still goes on in countless homes. (If you don't believe this, ring up the parents of graduating students.)

Conscientious parents are abiding by the principals' decision that the school party is sufficient. If there's any doubt about their youngsters coming home, they'll personally fetch their young from the school after the graduation dance.

But my guess is that, in every graduation audience, there'll be a number of heavy-hearted parents.

There'll be those who are giving in to their spoiled, dictatorial children, and letting them go out for a night on the town. These spineless people will worry themselves sick until their young folk condescend to come home in their own sweet time.

There'll be plenty of parents who've taken a firm stand and been told that they are the ONLY parents to uphold the school, and that there's always this fuss about graduation but none takes any notice of it.

But, mercifully, there'll be some students who are mature enough to realize that parents and principals with their combined years of experience are wiser than a mob of teenagers all thoroughly over-excited by "coming-of-age" en masse at the same time.

They'll admit that graduation is, or should be, a happy day for parents and teachers as well as for students. Because, back of every student on those platforms, is a lot of hard work by parents and teachers. Only a fool would deny that.

Meanwhile, it seems to me that graduation ceremonies in this country are largely out of hand, and have almost lost their meaning.

A modern tragedy. No less.

The Clotting of Blood

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine Mayo Foundation.

People want to know why sometimes blood clots so slowly and poorly. The clotting of the blood is a complicated process, depending on the working together of a number of substances. According to Dr. Howell's old theory, clotting depends on fibrinogen, thrombin, calcium salts, prothrombin, antiprotease, and thromboplastin. The blood begins to clot around tiny particles in the blood called platelets. Substances in the fluid in the tissues outside of a bleeding blood vessel also have much to do with the process.

I have mentioned all these factors to show how many things can go wrong with the clotting process. As a result, there may be long-continued bleeding or oozing of blood. A terrible disease, called hemophilia, affected several of the sons of the last king of Spain. Persons so affected can bleed to death or they can have a joint almost destroyed by a large hemorrhage into it. Fortunately, today, experts on blood and its diseases are learning so much about the process of clotting that they are becoming even better prepared to help persons who bleed too easily and too long.

Some persons suffer from the opposite trouble. Their blood clots too easily and causes arteries to plug up in the heart, brain or legs. In such cases, physicians cut down on the clotting of the blood by giving either heparin or dicoumarol. With the help of these drugs they often can keep the patient from getting a second clot somewhere. But the use of these "anti-coagulant" drugs must be watched closely because an overdose can do great harm.

QUACK-LOVERS GIVEN LIE

Incidentally, the discovery of dicoumarol can give the lie to those many lovers of ignorant quacks who, in the last few weeks, have written me angrily to say that we physicians are so narrow-minded that we will never use "a great cancer cure" because it was discovered by a layman. I well remember the day when, picking up a veterinary journal, I read that cows that had eaten spoiled clover often died of hemorrhages all over their bodies—hemorrhages due to the inability of their blood to clot. Immediately, I showed the article to one of my friends, a research chemist, and said, "Hurry up and find the essential chemical in that clover. Find it, because it can be a very useful drug in medicine."

Dr. Alvarez

Unfortunately for my friend, at the time he was so busy that he could not tackle the job, and it was another chemist who isolated the substance. We now call it dicoumarol. The minute it came on the market, it began to be used by thousands of physicians all over the world. No one cared a hoot who had discovered it; it worked and it saved life, and that was all we doctors were interested in.

Today, statistics indicate that persons like President Eisenhower, who have suffered clotting in a heart artery, when given the anti-clotting medicine, are only about half as likely to get another heart attack as are the persons who were not so treated.

TREATMENT FOR GEOGRAPHICAL TONGUE

Mr. Coisakis writes me that he had a geographical tongue and went to several doctors who, like me, did not know of any good treatment. He then painted his tongue twice a day with tincture of iodine and in a week he was well. Another kind person wrote that he went to a quack who pulled on his neck and in a few weeks his tongue was well. Still another friend of my column writes that his grandmother had him tie on his little finger a red woolen thread, and soon he was well. Still another reader, a physician, writes that he had a geographical tongue, and it never occurred to him to take any medicine at all. But in six weeks he was well! I am sure that now all persons with a geographical tongue will know exactly how to treat themselves!

ALLERGY IN BREAST-FED BABIES

Dr. Norman W. Clein, of Seattle, whose valuable article on allergy I recently commented on, writes me that babies, even from highly allergic families, if they are nursed at the breast for a while, have only one-seventh as great a chance of developing a serious allergy as do those who are raised on a bottle. This is what I suspected would be true.

RESEARCH IN CHILD PSYCHOLOGY

Recently, I read a complaint by some leading pediatricians to the effect that they did not have any scientific proof to back up the pronouncements of some psychiatrists as to the new ways of caring for children. The pediatricians did not know of anyone who had studied the results of bringing up 100 children in the new way, and then had compared these results with those obtained by bringing up 100 children in the old way. Until such studies are made, like these pediatricians, I will have no faith in the statements of theorists.

HOME GARDEN

Planted-Out Callas Will Bloom Longer

The white arum or calla commonly grown in large pots for indoor flowering in early spring is usually winter hardy in some of the sheltered local gardens by the sea.

Under its botanical name of Zantedeschia aethiopica, we find that this calla comes from Ethiopia and requires a rich soil and abundant water during its growing and flowering period.

At this time of year, a potted plant will benefit from being planted into the garden. Remove the plant from the pot, and set it into a prepared hole containing rich soil, and in a mostly shady spot.

In many cases, I have heard of such planted-out callas continuing to bloom during the summer. The delicate fragrance of the pure white spathe is delightful and well worth the attention required over summer. When no more blooms appear and the leaves finally become yellow, decrease watering and allow the plant to rest until late August. As new shoots appear, dig the plant and report

4 Frogmen Recover Youth's Body

DUNCAN — Four Nanaimo frogmen, L. H. McCracken, Bob Peterson, Alex McCracken and Ron Stafford Saturday recovered the body of Clarence Elmer Holst who was drowned while swimming with friends on May 21 in the swift-running Cowichan river, about five miles upstream from Duncan.

The body of the 20-year-old youth, who came from Port Alberni for the holiday weekend, was found in 15 feet of water, caught in a log jam.

The frogmen were able to carry out their operations when a B and R logging company crew, with a bulldozer, diverted some of the river's volume into its old bed.

Four Caught Deserting U.K. Freighter

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—Four British seamen were taken into custody by RCMP minutes after they deserted the British freighter Ss Merchant Duke as the vessel left the dock here Thursday night and headed for the open sea.

The four men were spotted in the act of deserting the ship by a Port Alberni immigration officer who had just cleared the ship for sailing.

Names of the men were not released by immigration authorities, but three of the men are in the 30-year age group and one is 35.

The men are being held in custody by the RCMP until Vancouver immigration authorities take over.

Crime Upsurge Blamed on Home

NANAIMO — Prison population increase, not traceable to the general rise in population, is because of failure in the home, Rev. J. D. Hobden of Vancouver told the Rotary Club here.

Mr. Hobden, who founded the Vancouver branch of the John Howard Society in 1931, said "biggest cause of modern delinquency developing into criminal behavior is to be found in the modern home."

He said Oakalla prison population 25 years ago was rarely more than 150. Today prison population is 1,200. New Westminster penitentiary, which housed between 150 and 200 convicts in 1931, today holds 700 or more.

A Dominion-provincial vocational training school will be built at Prince George, Education Minister Ray Williston announced here Friday.

Work was expected to start in the fall, he said in an address to 41 students graduating from the vocational training school.

"Nanaimo is the only place in Canada where the departments of education and labor have joined to come up with an answer to this important work in technical education," he said.

Seven students won honors during this year's training and received tool kits as prizes, made available by various branches of industry in B.C. Those who received prizes were C. Mattier, S. Goss, G. Burley, K. Kuntris, W. Tuomi, Jack Kincote and D. Doberstein.

It's the usable horsepower that counts

Rated horsepower figures can be very misleading. That is why all cost-wise truck buyers today talk about usable horsepower. It's the only horsepower that counts if you want to pull capacity loads at normal speeds... without the costly engine strain that develops in many passenger-car-type engines with high rated horsepower. International engines are built for trucks only. They turn at relatively low rpm and deliver high usable horsepower at normal speeds, for peak all-round performance... Plus trigger-fast acceleration and fuel economy. Before you buy... get all the "power story". See your International dealer or branch today.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Most grains firmed up in late trading today on the Winnipeg grain exchange after showing considerable irregularity early in the session.

An easier tone on United States markets and a lack of aggressive commercial demand contributed to declines in early dealings. However, oats, barley and rye eased or reduced the losses near the close as American markets turned steady. Flax showed sharp losses, closing at or near the lows of the day.

Only overseas business reported was small parcel lots of barley and flax to the United Kingdom. Weekend export wheat loadings: United Kingdom 670,000 bushels, West Germany 415,000, East Germany 370,000. The Netherlands 25,000, Norway 250,000, Portugal 25,000, Rhodesia 40,000.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat were unchanged from Friday.

'Go Banking, Young Man', Says Lambert

Youngest GM Cites Own Career

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP)—Banking today offers better opportunities for a young man than ever before, says Allen T. Lambert, newly-appointed general manager of the Toronto-Dominion Bank.

Mr. Lambert speaks with knowledge for, at 44, he is at present the youngest general manager of a Canadian bank and among the youngest ever appointed to such a position.

Rapid as has been his own progress, however, he says today's youths will find many hurdles easier to get over than when he started in Victoria in 1927, and they will find that the policies of banks and their boards of directors are to bring young men along and to give them responsibility.

In his own case he had spent 1 1/2 years "delivering collections" and another 1 1/2 years on savings ledgers before he was permitted to work as a teller. Today a new-comer could move on to teller work in three to six months.

WOMEN HELPED
Mr. Lambert, interviewed in his new office as general manager before even a paper or a pencil had reached his desk, gave women a hand for the faster advancement of today's young men.

With the war years girls had moved into banks in large numbers, had taken over broad areas of clerical work, and became part of the banking systems—with opportunities for themselves if they wished to pursue a banking career, but also relieving young bankers of work which had formerly taken up their early years.

Upturn in Buying Expected in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Businessmen were betting most of their chips this week on an early upturn in consumer spending.

That was the brightest ray of hope as the boom—particularly on the industrial front—showed further signs of slowdown.

There was evidence that a modest pickup in retail trade might be under way.

Morton J. May, chairman of May Department Stores Co., said the big chain's sales slumped during Easter but now "appeared to be following an upward trend."

Other cheerful spots on the business scene across the U.S. New proof of a rising trend of farmers' income, a brilliant if brief rally on the New York stock exchange, and hints that the tight money and credit situation might ease up soon.

Looming large on the minus side were new cutbacks and layoffs in the auto and home appliance industries, a continued lag in housing starts and the prospects of a greater-than-seasonal dip this summer in the U.S. steel production rate.

Much of the booming steel production of recent months (this week's output was scheduled at 96.5 per cent of capacity) has been the result of stockpiling by consumers eager to beat the new price rises many feel are coming soon.

The motor industry continued to sputter along in second gear. Production of new cars fell to about 75,000—lowest in nearly two years. New car sales showed some improvement but not enough to make any sizable dent in the towering mountain of inventories.

Auto retailers are still waiting for the traditional spring pickup.

'STILLYAGS' IN RUSSIA, 'TEDDY BOYS' IN U.K.

Youth Gang Problem Worries Every Nation of the World

By WATSON SIMS
Associated Press Staff Writer

In England they're Teddy boys. In Russia they're stillyags. Communist Hungary calls them spivs. To the Argentine they're patotas. And Japan knows them as the apuray.

They are the problem children of the world; the juvenile delinquent and the members of youth gangs. And in the last 10 years almost every nation in the world has had to find a word for them.

Youthful crime and vandalism have increased on a global scale since the end of the Second World War. It is a trend to which few exceptions were found in an Associated Press survey covering more than a dozen countries on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

ORIGINS SIMILAR

The behavior through which the youth of the world is distressing its elders looks pretty much the same in many of the world. It may involve crime, even murder. But much more often it's vandalism, rowdiness or banding together for mischievous purposes.

One outstanding aspect of the survey was the inclination in many countries to feel that juvenile delinquency, particularly where it involves youth gangs, is essentially an American invention.

Among Communist nations, this contention is part of the official propaganda line. But the feeling also crops up in non-Communist countries, tracing most often to Hollywood's long domination of the world's motion picture field.

Authorities in both England and Argentina note that the language of youth gangs seems to have been influenced by American movies.

Most often, the rise in juvenile crime was explained in terms of economic pressures. Crowded housing conditions and an increase in slum existence were blamed by authorities in several countries. Other officials said more and more mothers have had to go to work, bringing an increase in child neglect and a decline in moral education. In some war-devastated countries it was argued that sheer poverty caused young people to resort to crime or prostitution.

BLAME COLD WAR

An Argentine minister and youth counselor maintained there is a worldwide wave of restlessness among young people, arising from the unsettling influence of the Second World War and the continuing pressures of the cold war.

This feeling also is found in England, where many members of the Teddy boy gangs can look back to a bombed-out childhood existence. The average working class youth in England leaves school at 15 and must begin two years of military service at 18. The period in between is often unsettled, and youth gangs recruit many members from this age bracket.

Another broad point covered by the survey was the question of what is being done, or should be done, to combat the rise in delinquency. The answers ran the gamut, from "beat them" to "understand them."

In Germany, one finds strong sentiment for cracking down with stern disciplinary measures. In France, a special judicial system was set up after the war to handle cases involving persons 18 or younger. In England, the emphasis has been on interesting youth gangs and other potential delinquents in constructive activities, particularly of a group nature.

Here are some highlights of the delinquency problem in individual countries:

JAPAN

Delinquents are usually known as "apuray"—slang Japanese for "apres guerre," which in turn is French for "post-war." The problem is almost always blamed on the war and its occupation aftermath, and a decline in youth crime since the occupation ended has strengthened this feeling. In 1951, last full year of occupation, police listed 166,433 crimes by persons under 18. In 1954 the total was 120,002. Young criminals rarely operate in gangs.

ARGENTINA

A major form of delinquency involves "patotas"—slang for bands of street bullies. Authorities say the number of such gangs is increasing, with a corresponding rise in all forms of juvenile crime.

CONSUMERS' CHIEF SAYS:

Public's Shopping Comfort Ignored by Retail Stores

OTTAWA (CP)—Retailers should pay more attention to their customers' shopping comfort, says the president of the Canadian Association of Consumers.

Mrs. Renee Vautel of Montreal said retailers spend much on advertising to bring shoppers into a store, but spend little on keeping them buying when they get there.

Writing in the CAC's Bulletin, Mrs. Vautel said weary shoppers laden with parcels, watching children and trying to navigate along narrow aisles, are not at their buying best. Counter displays that don't allow easy circulation around them, and aisles too narrow for two shoppers to pass, discourage shopping. No place to relax on each floor of large department stores, and a child "hanging on their skirts" in selling space, she said.

Teddy boys, noted for tight trousers, long jackets and string ties, are found in large cities. They are known chiefly for rowdy behavior and vandalism. Glasgow and Liverpool have been plagued by youth gang battles, usually along Protestant-Catholic lines.

FRANCE

"In often unstable post-war France, youth has been perhaps the steadiest element. In 1953, last year for which statistics are available, French police listed 14,000 cases involving juveniles, of which only 2,800 resulted in prison or reformatory sentences. In 1950 there were 18,000 cases.

RUSSIA

No statistics available. But campaigns against delinquency are an old and regularly continuing story in the government press and radio. Denounced with especial bitterness are privileged children of bureaucrats, who run around in papa's car, drink, affect Western clothes and buy jazz records.

POLAND

Usually considered worst plagued of all satellite nations, Polish press reported that in Warsaw alone 12,000 adolescent criminals were punished in a single year. The newspapers complained that too many had been acquitted.

WEST GERMANY

Youth gangs with motorcycles have appeared in West Berlin but they are the exception where orthodox youth gangs are common. The gangs have no marked pattern or dress, but blue jeans and plaid shirts are often worn. Ducktail haircuts also have appeared. Most frequent gang activity is minor robbery.

LONDON

LONDON (Reuters)—The stock market lost ground today under the influence of the current labor and economic uncertainties and the fresh fall in sterling. Selling was not heavy but markets were without support.

Outstanding feature was renewed weakness of gilt-edged securities which showed falls ranging to nearly a point. Dollar stocks responded to Wall street's advance last Friday but this failed to affect sentiment in the other divisions.

VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER—A very quiet market with prices lower. Trojan sold 16,500 shares down to 61. Canadian Collieries (prf) moved 10,700 between 91 and 93.

Premier Border traded 5,000 at $1.94. Skeen sold 4,200 at 30. Vananda moved 3,000 at 9. Inland Gas sold 4,300 at $5 1/4.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL (CP)—Fluctuations were mainly fractional as prices continued in a mixed vein today in moderate afternoon trading on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

Is the big boom going to bust?

The stock market has been weak. Some business signs were starting to point down.

But what is the over-all picture and what do the facts about the business climate add up to?

Pirates Lead --For 2 Hours

Pittsburgh Bucs Real Surprise in NL; Yankees Lose Pair to Tigers

By The Associated Press

For 145 golden minutes, the giddy Pittsburgh Pirates led the National League Sunday afternoon before losing the second half of a doubleheader.

Although Bobby Bragan's upstarts finished the day six percentage points behind Milwaukee, it would take a brave man to predict they won't hit the top again.

The fired-up Pirates, whose starting rise from the depths of the cellar has excited the nation, actually lead Milwaukee by half a game in the won-and-lost figures. Due to a difference in total games played during this rainy spring: 40 by Pittsburgh, 33 by Milwaukee, the Braves hold the edge in percentages.

When Pittsburgh edged Milwaukee 3-1 in Sunday's first game it marked the first time they had been in first place since June 16, 1948, when they shared the lead with the Boston Braves. A two-run uprising in the sixth broke up a tight battle between Roy Rice, getting his first start after 15 games in the bullpen, and Milwaukee's Ray Croce.

BELL HIT 11TH

Pittsburgh almost pulled out the second game against Bob Buhl but finally bowed 4-3. The defeat was charged to Vernon Law, who gave up all Milwaukee's runs.

Elsewhere in the National, Cincinnati remained in their place by splitting two with New York Giants. A pair of two-run homers by Frank Robinson and Ray Jablonski set up the Redlegs' opening victory 7-3 but the Giants fought off a late surge to save the second 4-3, despite two homers by Gus Bell, who has hit 11 this season.

Old teammates look turns working out on their former buddies at St. Louis. After Murry Dickson, an ex-Phil, pitched the Cardinals to a 2-0 edge over the Phils' Robin Roberts, the Phils came back for an even break 9-3 behind Harvey Haddix, an ex-Cardinal.

YANKS LOSE PAIR

Brooklyn awoke from its Chicago slumber after losing three straight to the cellar team and knocked off the Cubs 4-3.

The American League "runaway" became more of a pennant race when Detroit dumped the leading New York Yankees twice, 6-3 and 7-4 in 10 innings.

The results cut the Yanks' lead to four and one-half games over Chicago, which took over second by thumping Baltimore 12-0 and 9-2.

Marlene's Sub-Par Finish Worth $1,350

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Mrs. Marlene Bauer Haggie packed $1,350 top prize money into her duffel bag today and shoved off on the next leg of the lady pros' spring tour after staging a whirlwind finish Sunday to win the 72-hole Dodge women's invitational golf tournament.

The Sarasota, Fla., swatter recorded the only sub-par back nine score of the four-day tourney at soggy, water-logged Churchill Valley Country Club by firing a one-under-men's-par 33.

Her sparkling 33, paired with a first nine 38, gave Mrs. Haggie a final round card of 71 and a total of 293. She breezed home five strokes ahead of her sister, Alice Bauer, Asheville, N.C., and U.S. women's open champ Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay.

Mounties Split With Padres

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—San Diego defeated Vancouver 7-2 in the first game of a Pacific Coast League doubleheader Sunday, with Arnie Atkins striking out six in his pitching debut with the Padres.

Vancouver won the second game, 3-2. Reliever Ryne Duren checked a last-inning Padre threat to save the mound credit for Fred Baczewski.

Solarium Corner

Top prize this year in the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association Solarium Derby, co-sponsored by the Times, is a 1956 Ford Fairlane sedan.

Tickets for the annual derby, to be held July 22, cost $1 and are available to both members and non-members of the VSIAA. All proceeds from the derby are turned over to the Queen Alexandra Solarium and its work for crippled children.

Tickets may be obtained from Stewart-Pringle, who has been connected with VSIAA for four years, and has been on the derby committee for the past three years.

Born and raised in Victoria, Stewart's job in the insurance line doesn't give him as much time as he would like to devote to fishing. He is married and has six children. Those wanting tickets may phone him at 4-4067.

He'll tell you how he won the main derby prize a few years ago.

NANAIMO—Nanaimo Timbermen rolled on relentlessly last Saturday night.

The T-men ran roughshod over New Westminster Salmonbellies, 18-7, as Bob Allan, Don Ashbee, Don Sherry and Lisle Scott went on a scoring rampage. The foursome got 15 goals. Allan topped the parade with five.

Still, one of the big stars of the game was substitute goalie Alf Shuker.

Replacing Fred Fulla, Shuker was a standout. In addition he assisted on three goals as the T-men scored their fifth straight Inter-City Boxla League victory.

They have lost but once in eight games.

Both teams played it close in the first period with Nanaimo managing a 3-2 lead. Sherry opened the scoring at 1:33 when Preston came all the way over to the corner to retrieve the ball and lost it to the wiry Sherry who had the empty net in front of him. Radonich tied it up three minutes later, but Allan got it back for the Timbermen at 8:26. The mainland crew tied it up again at 11:44. Cliff Sepka getting the goal. Ashbee made it 3-2 to end the first period. That was the closest the Salmonbellies got to the powerful T-men.

Nanaimo poured it on in the second period pushing nine goals past Preston while holding the mainland crew scoreless.

Allan picked up four goals. Ashbee and Scott each two and Rodway one.

Allan now has 38 points to lead teammate Don Sherry who has 34 in the individual scoring race.

COLLINS WINS PRIZ
FRANCORCHAMPS, Belgium (Reuters)—British ace Peter Collins Sunday roared to victory in a flame-red Ferrari in front of the world's best racing drivers to cop the Grand Prix of Belgium at a speed averaging 118.3 miles an hour.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Rev. Henry Armstrong, only man in boxing history to hold three world titles simultaneously, was reported out of danger Sunday following a convulsive seizure.

Armstrong, 43, was stricken at his home Saturday night and taken to hospital.

His physician said the attack apparently followed a digestive disorder.

"There is no indication of brain or nervous system damage," he added. "In other words, Armstrong is not punch drunk."

The fighter-turned-minister will undergo several days of medical tests which doctors hope will pinpoint the disorder.

Armstrong held the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight titles at the same time for several months in 1938.

Armstrong was a fighting champion. He participated in 26 title bouts, more than any man in modern times except Joe Louis, who fought in 27.

"PERPETUAL MOTION"
The little buzz-saw from Los Angeles, whose speed and stamina earned him the nickname of "Perpetual Motion," just missed winning a fourth crown.

After he had relinquished the featherweight crown and lost the lightweight diadem, Armstrong, still welter king, took on Cefero Garcia, then middleweight champion. They fought to a 10-round draw, Garcia thereby retaining the title.

Dick Varley and Bert Gilmour, nimbly dodging wrecked cars strewn about the track, finished a close one-two in the 25-lap main event at Western Speedway's weekly stock car meet Saturday night.

Varley's victory snapped a three-meet win streak run up by Dick Willoughby. Willoughby, a bulky motor giving him trouble throughout the evening, finished sixth in the main event.

Varley and Gilmour, fighting their close battle in the main event, narrowly missed a three-car smashup on the 19th lap, and had to race around the stalled stockers for the remaining six laps.

Only nine of the 17 starters in the main event finished, claxoning an accident-studded meet.

Most spectacular accident came in one of the heat races. Jack Rumley of Chemalun lost control of his car and sent it careening off the track. It bounced over 200 yards of rough ground, skidded over a 15-foot embankment and finally plowed into a car driven by Varley. Both drivers were unhurt.

Another accident saw Del Williams roll his car, while there were several spinouts.

In addition to taking his first main event of the year, Varley rounded out a big evening by taking the trophy dash over Lamont Brooks and winning one of the heat races.

A crowd of 1,700 fans watched the evening's action.

Results:
Trophy dash—1. Dick Varley; 2. Lamont Brooks; 3. Dick Willoughby; 4. Digger O'Dell; 5. Gerry Silvester; 6. Phil Lambrick; 7. Bert Gilmour; 8. Ken Dobbie; 9. Dick Varley; 10. Roy Newton; 11. Chris Benson; 12. Harry Roberts; 13. Dave Cooper; 14. Dave Hansen; 15. Mechanics race—1. Al King; 2. Frank Addison; 3. Dick Varley; 4. Bert Gilmour; 5. Ray Pottinger.

Fleming on Top in Tee Tourney

Bigelow Second in City Golf

Gorge Vale Golf Club's

Bob Fleming, shooting sub-par golf after a shaky nine-hole beginning, took the lead Sunday at the 36-hole mark in the 72-hole City Amateur golf championships at Uplands Golf Club.

Fleming, who won the city title in 1953, connected for a 68 in the afternoon, lowest round of the day, to go with his morning 74, for a total of 142.

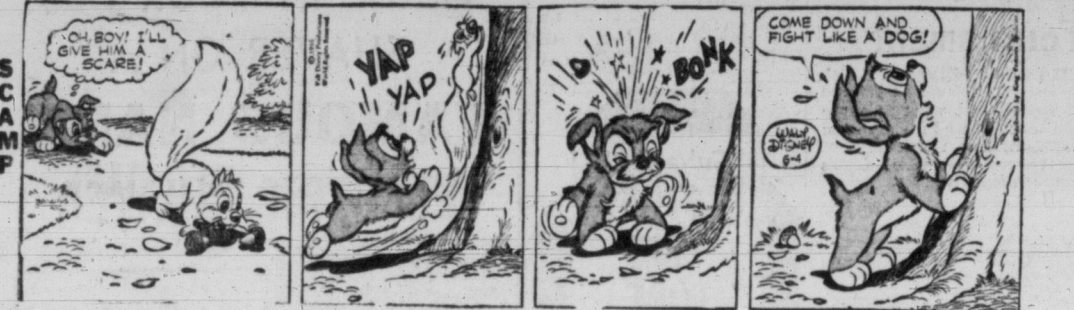

After the first nine holes of the morning round, when he skied to a 40, Fleming had no worse than par over the rest of the day.

He had 14 fours and four threes on the final 18 holes.

His score was considered excellent as a heavy downpour of rain made the Uplands course play "long."

Dr. George Bigelow, with a 69 in the afternoon which included a sparkling 31 on the back nine, and a 36-hole total of 144, moved into the runner-up position.

Colwood Golf Club's Bill McColl, who led in the morning round with a 6

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books? Then ask Andy.

Andy, who is a prize, not a person, will answer two questions daily submitted by child readers of Canada and the U.S. Children who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive as prizes, for the main question, a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) beautifully bound with excellent color illustrations. Second award will either be a huge Hammond Globe, or a Hammond Nature Atlas of North America.

Send your questions to "Ask Andy," c/o The Times, 5831 Douglas Street.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Ronnie Hillsden, aged nine, of Victoria, B.C., for his question:

How Does a Mongoose Kill a Snake?

When it comes to killing, fizzes up the hair of his coat, snakes, the mongoose is the world's champ. Let's watch the scrappy fellow go through a bout. Our champ is the Indian mongoose, a relative of the Rikki-tikki-tavi in the Kipling Jungle Book story. It is early morning and time for breakfast. Mr. Mongoose, wearing a dark grey fur coat, sallies forth from his burrow. In looks, you might mistake him for a kind of weasel.

He walks along gracefully, stopping to listen and stare around with bright red eyes. Ah! He sees a scorpion. Pounce. Mr. Mongoose is licking his chops. On he goes, hoping to find a snake, for he is very hungry. Sh! Over there is just what our champ needs to start off his day.

It is a deadly, seven-foot cobra. And our champ is little bigger than a house cat. The snake senses trouble and gets ready to strike. But Mr. Mongoose has a trick ready. He leaps out of range quicker than the snake can plan. The snake strikes and misses. He flops full length to the ground with a mouthful of empty air. Now the mongoose moves with a flash. He springs onto the prone snake and tries to sink his sharp teeth into the back of the head. He bites and springs back. Again the snake strikes short of his mark. Again he is rewarded for trouble with a bite in the back of the neck.

The strikes go on and the bites begin to tell. Sooner or later the mongoose inflicts a mortal wound. He then begins first, poison glands and all. All that snake meat may be too much for one sitting. The mongoose may stuff himself, curl up and take a snooze. But he will continue the banquet when he wakes up.

Doesn't the mongoose ever get bitten by a poisonous snake? Yes, he does. He may even be killed. But it seems that he is less sensitive to snake venom than most creatures. Maybe he loose stuff called moraine. Muddy streams trickle out from behind the moraine. They carry tons of finer dirt and loose silt. And they can't wait to unload it. Usually this dirt settles to form long rounded humps. Those little hills that run parallel to a valley are called drumlins. Those that cross the valley are called kames. The word drumlin is borrowed from an old Gaelic word druim, which means a hilltop.

The glaciers that crept down through the Ice Ages left piles of rocks and dirt behind them. Whenever an expert finds a drumlin, he knows that there a massive glacier was once stopped in its tracks.

Red Guards Fire On Japanese Rescuers

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese coast guard officials said Russian soldiers fired warning shots today over a Japanese government rescue boat making a futile attempt to pick up 10 crew members of a fishing vessel aground off Soviet-held Suisho island in the Kuriles. The 10 fishermen were not sighted and maritime officials fear they were taken into custody by the Russians.

(BB PLUS) "HILDA CRANE" (Royal)—Until it reaches its climax 20th Century-Fox's "Hilda Crane" is an absorbing drama. But only the very sentimental or the naive could swallow the pill of happiness at the end.

Hilda—played tautly by Jean Simmons—is a girl who has lost her way during her walk through life, treading the paths of Independence and Initiative only to discover, too late, they were what Victorian writers delighted to call Primo.

After two unsuccessful marriages Hilda decides it's high time to get off the by-ways and seek a quiet home and kids on Respectability Street. Rich Guy Madison offers to escort her. But Guy's mama, Evelyn Varden, digs up a few statistics, viz: Hilda drank too much in college; she lived with her first husband before marrying him; and similar quaint goings-on. Nonetheless, Hilda goes through with the wedding because Guy, who has learned all from mother, is a right guy.

Unfortunately, mama, always feigning heart trouble, dies suddenly while the wedding is in progress and Guy is so upset, blaming himself for the tragedy, that he neglects his bride to an unbelievable degree. She, in her fear and remorse, hits the bottle, and takes up with old flame Jean Pierre Aumont, gay author and lecturer who considers love has more zing without rings. When hubby, who as yet has to kiss the bride, becomes upset because another man is quite willing to Hilda rushes home and gobbles up half a bottle of sleeping pills.

Now if they had quietly pulled the curtain there "Hilda Crane" might have emerged as a play with something to say. But they didn't. And it hadn't.

The new award for the first question is a 15-book set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia.

Ronnie's question on how a mongoose can kill a poisonous snake is answered by Andy on page 10 today. He is a Gordon Head School student.

The encyclopedia was presented to Ronnie by Times managing editor Leslie Fox and Fred Sturgess, president of Sturgess Distributors of Vancouver, the Canadian distributor of the books.

It is a Canadian edition of the encyclopedia especially issued for schools and youngsters in Canada, and is profusely illustrated with both color and black and white pictures.

Billy Rose Weds Joyce Mathews

NEW YORK (AP)—Showman Billy Rose and former showgirl Joyce Mathews were married Saturday in a civil ceremony in the home of comedian Abe Burrows.

The ceremony was performed by Justice Samuel Gold, of Manhattan supreme court. Rose's best man was Ben Hecht, the writer.

A score of guests witnessed the brief ceremony, the fourth marriage for 36-year-old Miss Mathews and the third for Rose, who is 56.

Young Quizzers Divide $64,000

To Previous $16,000 in Winnings Little Negro Girl Adds $32,000

NEW YORK (UP)—Two 12-year-old spelling experts divided a television quiz program's top $64,000 prize Sunday night without answering any questions.

Andy Douglass of Greenwich, Conn., and Gloria Lockerman of Baltimore, who had tied last week for the winner-take-all prize, each received $32,000. Producers of the "64,000 Challenge" quiz program waived a contest rule and divided the money between them.

Andy and Gloria were scheduled to compete in one more spelling bee last night after they tied for the top prize last week. The show's rules provided that if they tied a second time they would split the money.

HELL JUST LOOK

But producers of the show decided to split the money between the two expert spellers without the second spell-off because the contestants were children.

Andy, who lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Douglass, smiled broadly. When he was asked what he planned to do with the money he said: "I think I'll just look at it for a while."

Gloria, a 10th-grade Negro student, who had won $16,000 on the "64,000 Question" program several months ago, could only nod and stare at the cheque when asked if she was happy.

Model Plane Fans Plan New Club

A meeting of model aircraft builders June 23 will try to re-establish Victoria Model Aircraft Club after a four-year lapse.

Leader of the movement is Bud George, for 15 years a prominent model plane enthusiast and former president of the organization.

He said the group would probably concentrate on setting a new model plane speed record for Canada. The former club held a Canadian record of 133 miles an hour.

An unofficial group of model flyers has been gathering on Lansdowne Field for flying sessions. Most are teenagers and adults, but the youngest is 10-year-old Geoffrey Titterton.

Planes have gasoline or alcohol-burning engines and are controlled by a "B" string, or hand-manipulated set of control cables.

'Put Princess To Work' Says Paper

LONDON (BUP)—A London newspaper suggested Sunday that Princess Margaret and the happy-go-lucky Duke of Kent ought to get jobs and go to work. It said the princess would do fine as Canada's next governor-general.

"Find the princess a man-sized job," the Sunday Graphic headlined its advice.

"Must we let hidebound thinking and fuddy-duddy advice fence her in?" the paper asked. "In a first rank job she would find her own fulfillment and at least friends of her own choosing."

"Given the word tomorrow, Canada would jump at the chance of inviting her to be next governor-general. So would Australia."

"Princess Margaret in Ottawa for three years would give a new look, new warmth and life to the ties between the Old Country and the New World."

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

OUR VERY OWN GARDENING GUIDE

(WHAT TO DO WHEN THE RAINS COME EDITION)
Rain is water falling in drops from the clouds, as any dictionary-reader can plainly see. But more than that, rain is the Gardener's best friend.

Especially when the water falling in drops from the clouds chooses to drop during the Gardener's day off from the office.

When this salubrious situation occurs (as it did this past weekend) the Gardener arises, peers through the window, and says as follows to his wife:

"Oh, shucks, tush, and gracious me," says the Gardener. "What a disappointment."

"Hm?" says the Gardener's wife, not being yet fully awakened.

"Today," explains the Gardener, "I had planned to be up and about at an early hour, the better to weed, hoe, cultivate, and titivate our garden."

"Fnnff," says the Gardener's wife, non-committantly.

"But what do I see when I gaze through the window?" says the Gardener. "I see naught but water falling in drops from the clouds. One cannot garden when it is raining," the Gardener goes on.

"In fact," says the Gardener, as he climbs back into bed and pulls the covers over his head, "one cannot even water the garden when it is raining."

"Fllmmp," says the Gardener's wife.

And, if this happy situation would only maintain itself, our thesis—to wit, rain is the Gardener's best friend especially on his day off—would be self explanatory.

Unfortunately, however, there are inherent dangers for the Gardener, even when it is raining.

Just as the Gardener is dozing off into blissful slumber, his wife abandons her "Hmff?", "Fnnff" and "Fllmmp" in favor of saying as follows:

"It is too bad it is raining and you cannot work in the garden but it may be just as well how about cleaning out the attic fixing the little light in the refrigerator getting rid of the old newspapers and magazines and oh yes the handle on the cool cupboard doesn't handle didn't you say you'd take the squeak out of the board in front of the kitchen stove the first rainy day and the vacuum needs un-vacuuming."

To which the Gardener replies (if he is a wise Gardener): "Zzzzzzz-mmpff."

Thus the day during which water drops from the clouds passes peacefully for the Gardener.

Until the moment when the rain ceases. And at this time, even the wisest Gardener may lose everything he gained from the rain.

Because the Gardener's wife is apt to remark: "Now the rain has stopped, let us take a little walk around the garden."

And if the Gardener agrees, the Gardener has had it. The Gardener's wife is quick to point out how wonderful the soil smells after the rain, how soft it is, and how easy it is to remove weeds from soft, sweet-smelling soil.

"If you will just pull-out that little, sweet-scented bit of chickweed," says the Gardener's wife.

So the Gardener does, and thus commits himself.

When he pleads for succor on account of darkness, the Gardener's wife obligingly produces a flashlight.

There is nothing to save the Gardener but more water falling in drops from the clouds.

Better he should have stood in bed.

'I HOPE, I HOPE, I HOPE'

SWIM ATTEMPT HAILED

Double Jackpot For Marilyn?

Saturday's announcement that Toronto's Marilyn Bell will try Juan de Fuca Strait in late August was hailed today as certain to make the summer of 1956 "the biggest swim year yet."

In addition to the Bell swim, the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce will go ahead with its plans to raise between $10,000 and $15,000 for a mass swim about the same time. The fund is to be raised by a Dutch auction on radio station CKDA and local pledges.

JC president Stickney Harris said so far as the Jaycees are concerned Marilyn can swim for their jackpot as well, if she goes at the same time.

Marilyn has been guaranteed $20,000 for her attempt, with a $10,000 bonus if she makes it. The Toronto Telegram and Victoria Times are co-sponsors of her effort along with Weekend Magazine.

INDEPENDENT PLANS
Several Victoria and other independent swimmers are proceeding with their own swim plans.

Most local reaction to the announcement of Marilyn's swim is loud in its praise, particularly as a means of publicizing Victoria.

"Wonderful" was publicity commissioner George Warren's comment. "It's the best piece of publicity the city has ever had."

"The people who initiated it should be complimented." Added YMCA swim coach Archie McKinnon: "We'll get a million dollars in publicity for it."

The Gordon King trophy for the model band student of the year in Oak Bay schools was won by Gwen Brand, 2054 Marion, 13-year-old grade eight pupil.

Selection of the clarinetist was made on the basis of aptitude, attitude, musical qualities and other points. She receives an annual trophy, a miniature trophy which she retains, and a $10 prize from Oak Bay Schools' Band Parents' Association.

Parks administrator Herbert Warren said today grass planted in vicinity of the model yacht pond, Holland Point, should be sufficiently rooted to permit opening of the pond early in July. Mayor Percy Scourah indicated there would be no civic ceremony, the pond would merely be flooded and left open to public use.

A delegation from Victoria Motor Courts Association, representing a membership of 37, asked city council public works committee for additional downtown directional signs pointing to Gorge Road motels. The committee will add one sign. Some aldermen felt it was up to the auto court owners to publicize their own businesses. If city signs were erected leading to motels they should also be put up directing tourists to restaurants and all other services, Ald. M. H. Mooney stated.

Louis Knutson of Victoria was fined $50 in city police court today for supplying liquor to an Indian which is contrary to the Indian Act.

Ronald W. Shaw, 3104 Blanchard, was fined $35 in city police court today after pleading guilty to a careless driving charge.

Pleading guilty to a charge of careless driving, Edith Winifred Stewart, 1416 St. David, was fined $35 in city police court today.

City police Saturday seized an old 50 calibre machine gun from two boys who found the weapon in a junk yard.

Tourist trade group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce meets Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Poodle Dog restaurant.

It will be a business meeting.

Mrs. M. Bennett, 240 Roberts street, reported to police Sunday that half a dozen rotten eggs were thrown on her front porch and some windows of her house were broken. She did not know the persons who threw the eggs.

The man's estimated age was between 20 and 30. He had been in the water from six to eight weeks.

Activities get under way at 7:45 p.m., and at latest reports 5,800 tickets had been sold. The arena will seat 7,900 players.

RCAF Recruit Depot Opened on Yates St.

The new RCAF recruiting depot, 865 Yates, was officially opened at 10 a.m. today by Wing Commander W. K. Carr, Ottawa, assistant director of personnel training, RCAF.

His first duties were to swear in the first recruit, 17-year-old Paul Davies, a former Victoria High student, who lives at 2208 Fernwood, and to enroll in the regular RCAF reservist Eleanor Lee, 18, 3118 Doncaster, a former Esquimalt High girl.

W/C Carr said that since the RCAF recruiting unit opened its doors Nov. 1, 1950, in the old Government Street location, 2,749 recruits had been enrolled. Of these 464 were officers, 1,952 airmen and 363 airwomen. Total number of applicants received were 10,610. Peak month to date was July, 1952, when 101 recruits were taken into the RCAF.

Air cadets enlisting totalled 337.

HIGH CALIBRE

"Recruits we have obtained here are certainly as good as from any other part of the country," said W/C Carr. "Productivity is high. This is one of the better units."

Peacetime recruiting, he said, depended largely on public relations, and while money was spent on advertising careers in the RCAF, without good public

Lake Race Track Hopes Revived

200 Attend North Saanich Graduation

Many Speeches At Exercises

Approximately 200 persons attended graduation ceremonies on the weekend at North Saanich High School.

Graduates were Wendy E. Ashby, Flowalee Beers, George D. Braithwaite, Roy K. Brekke, Noel Coward, Marilyn L. Darks, Marion J. Eckert, William L. Gardner, Ethel L. Jahn, Marian E. McKay, Patricia A. McLellan, Luigi G. Pastro, Thomas G. Polson, Helen C. Ross and Gertrude E. Scrivner.

Mrs. M. Destrube, guest speaker, chose as her subject "On Being a Canadian." Other guest speakers were Dr. H. P. Johns, Saanich school inspector; James Helps, vice-chairman of the board of school trustees; L. Martin, president-elect of North Saanich High PTA; W. W. Gardner, who spoke on behalf of parents; C. C. Inkster of the school staff and Cpl. G. Kent, RCMP.

Student speakers were Georgette Scrivner, Patricia McLellan, Marian McKay, Marion Eckert, Marilyn Darks and Luigi Pastro, all of whom provoked votes of thanks. Lloyd Gardner looked into the crystal ball for the class prophecy while George Braithwaite read the last will and testament.

MOST APPRECIATED

Valedictorian Helen Ross, in thanking the school on behalf of the grads, said that all of them realized the importance of the textbook material that had been imported to them, but she felt that the character training and the instruction on how to use and develop the mind were the two factors of education at North Saanich that students most appreciated.

Following the ceremony supper was served to graduates and guests under the joint convener-ship of Miss M. Sinclair of the school and Mrs. G. McNeill of the PTA. Mrs. J. Helps and Miss Netta Jones presided at the tea and coffee urns.

The graduation dance attracted a large crowd of young people. Arrangements were in the hands of the PTA with Mrs. T. H. John presiding and Mrs. L. Christian as dance convener.

During the evening, presentations were made to Mrs. I. Lee, Grade XII home room teacher, and to D. E. Breckenridge, school principal.

Seaman Admits Hitting Constable

Pleading guilty to a charge of assaulting a police officer, Gordon Frank Foster, a seaman, today was remanded by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court until Tuesday for sentence.

Foster admitted punching Constable Raymond Short in the nose after knocking a man through a plate glass window.

Another seaman, Nick Shew, was fined $50 for obstructing a Saanich police officer.

Saanich May Be Asked To Hold Vote—Edgelow

A Vancouver horse racing syndicate is still interested in development of a race track near Elk and Beaver Lakes and may ask Saanich to hold a plebiscite on the matter following settlement of current litigation.

Ald. Geoffrey I. Edgelow made the disclosure to a city council public works committee meeting today as the committee discussed renewal of farm land leases in that area.

ISLAND TURF
The firm is thought to be Island Turf Ltd., which negotiated with the city last year for use of the land.

The area is owned by the city but as it lies within Saanich boundaries, that municipality levied taxes against it for a local improvement pipeline project.

The city refused to pay on the basis the land had been granted Victoria on a tax-free basis by the province, as a watershed.

Saanich sold the site for unpaid taxes last year to Elk Lake Ratepayers' Association. The city has a year to pay arrears and regained possession. However, council decided to fight.

the taxation in court and the matter has been in the hands of W. H. M. Haldane, QC, for several months.

YEAR-TO-YEAR

In the meantime, the works committee renewed a lease of 40 acres for farm purposes to B. R. Quick, but on a year-to-year basis, in case the race track question is settled at an early date.

Other local interests may develop a race track on the site of the old Colwood track before the Saanich-Victoria wrangle reaches the courts.

Colwood and District Chamber of Commerce has asked Department of National Defence, which owns the land, for the right to build a track there.

Defence Minister Ralph Campney said recently he could see no objection to the land being put to that use, but no official word has been received from Ottawa.

Slow Zones Possible For Victoria Churches

Some Victoria churches soon may be able to establish slow traffic zones with cooperation of city council and police.

Council public works committee today informed Centennial United Church on Gorge Road that removable 15-mile per hour "Church Zone" signs are being considered.

The signs, if council approves, will be provided by the churches according to city standards, and will be portable. They will be set out before church services and removed when the services end.

The experiment follows requests by at least five large city churches, most of them in the Quadra-Panora area, for a supervised traffic patrol system. Centennial United has asked pedestrian crosswalks be provided in view of a recent serious accident.

The committee felt, however, the crosswalks would have little value except for two hours on Sunday and would slow traffic on a secondary highway.

Jack Smith Shows Way For Rain-Soaked Skippers

Fair weather sailors were conspicuous by their absence Sunday as eight rain-soaked skippers drizzled through the annual Hein Bank race.

Heavy rain and light winds made the outward leg anything but pleasant, but a freshening breeze in the afternoon enabled all boats to fetch home on a single tack.

A class winner—first across the line and first on adjusted time—was Jack Smith's eight-meter Reality, and second was Jack Middleton in Erin.

Ned Ashe in Mae D was first in B-C Class, followed by Red Start, with Frank Piddington of the RCNSA at the helm.

Only eight yachts were entered, half the usual number in weekend races. The course was to Salmon Bank and return, as Hein Bank has been restricted as a bombing range for U.S. forces.

On Saturday, RYVC junior skippers went down to defeat before a Maple Bay crew in an elimination race for the Sears Cup, international trophy.

Skipper Gerry Goleman and crew members Sandy Robinson and Bob Sherman won two out of three close races from Dave Ockenden, Ward Stephens and Tom Gibbons. Coleman and crew will represent Vancouver Island in further elimination races.

CD Board Gets Evacuation Plan

Final draft of the city's first over-all evacuation plan went into the hands of Greater Victoria Civil Defence Control Board today for study and discussion.

Roger Peachey, CD co-ordinator who has guided preparation of the plan for 18 months, said the board would meet again next Monday at 11 a.m. The question of the plan's publication would be discussed.

For purposes of speedy evacuation in the event of emergency, the city has been split into sectors, each of which will follow a designated route from the city at the sound of an air alert.

Mr. Peachey reported to the board a vehicle for training ambulance drivers has been obtained by the CD group and will go into use shortly.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—It would be a favor if you would print a list of the post-masters general of Canada over the last quarter-century, stating whether French-speaking or English-speaking.—Mrs. E. H. A.

A.—Starting in 1931, they were as follows (with the title Hon. omitted and those from French-speaking Canada identified as F.C.): 1931, Arthur Sauve, F.C.; 1936, J. C. Elliott; 1939, C. G. Power, F.C.; 1941, W. P. Mulock; 1946, Ernest Bertrand, F.C.; 1949, Alphonse Fournier, F.C.; 1951, G. E. Rinfret, F.C.; 1953, Alcide Cote, F.C.; 1955, Hugues Lapointe, F.C.

Q.—During the bedlam in the House of Commons, shouts were heard that the opposition was being garrotted. What was meant?—A. B. F.

A.—In general garrotting means strangulation. In particular, a garrote was a device invented in Spain for the execution of criminals. It consisted of a metal collar with a set screw in the middle of the back portion which when turned pressed increasingly against the neck until the spinal column was broken. The garrote was used also in France during the Terror.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Downtown Stores Abounding With Items to Interest You

By PENNY SAVER

You'll find a strange and varied selection of items in today's column. It seems that interesting gadgets, goods and clothes of all sorts are arriving in dabs and dabs, to keep the shoppers interested, of course. Grass clippers, certainly an item that many folks will be shopping for now that gardening weather is in full force; are selling for as low as $1.89. Sturdy and easily gripped wooden handles are polished, and are attached in such a way that they'll stay on.

There are a dozen and one jobs around the house that require you to kneel, and after an afternoon of washing floors or maybe painting kitchen chairs and such, your knees take on a rather battered and bruised look. A direct steal from the sporting goods shops are the household knee pads meant especially for you. They're of rubber, with corrugated front surface so that they won't slip on wet surfaces. These soft cushions will make the job to be done seem a lot easier. It's a good investment that will bring dividends of comfort. They're $2.10 a pair.

With summer parties increasing, we find that a light, full coat that will double for day-time and evening wear is a must. For over your full skirt, or as a complement for that new sheath, the corded duster coats I saw are perfect. In navy or black, they are fashioned with Chinese collars, full belted backs, and three-quarter cuffed sleeves. The price is surprising at $7.98.

Hopping back to the hardware goods for a moment, I'll tell you about bright chair and table glides that will fit all wood and metal furniture.

CWL Convention

Rev. Father Oliver, a Basilian priest connected with the new St. Mark's College at University of British Columbia, will be guest speaker at the 28th annual diocesan convention banquet of the Catholic Women's League of Canada on Tuesday. Mrs. A. E. Wright, Kamloops, provincial president, and delegates from many parts of Vancouver Island, will be present. Business sessions will be held in Queen of Peace Church parish hall, Esquimalt, with Miss J. Madeline Clay, diocesan president, presiding. Hostess group will be the Queen of Peace subdivision of the CWL.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Plan Carefully to Make Vacation More Enjoyable

At this time of year most folks get that far-away look as they dream of their summer vacations. Many of these dreamers bemoan the fact that their vacation is so short.

It is true that often it seems that the packing before and the unpacking after is the main part of a two-week vacation. These two points are held together by a few highlights in experience which happened in between. Once I took a 1,000-mile motor trip with my two young children. Afterward, looking back, I had no memory at all of driving through the countryside but only of getting in and out of the car to take care of their various needs.

There are many things you can do to make your vacation more restful and more enjoyable. In the first place, if you are going by car, be sure to have the family bus thoroughly checked as insurance against car trouble. Also be certain that your tires are adequate. It is sheer madness to start out on a pleasure trip with tires which will give you constant trouble, to say nothing of the danger of this procedure.

Plan carefully about the clothes you will take. Do not burden yourself with too many but see to it that you have the right kind. If Ross, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, write to the manager to find out has consented to open the party, what you will need if you do not know. If you are traveling to a different part of the country write to the local weather bureau to find out what temperatures and weather conditions you are apt to run into.

The experienced traveler travels "light." Today there are so many combination clothes for women. There are all kinds of separates which can be combined in different ways for different occasions. There are crease-resistant materials and mylons and other garments which do not have to be ironed. Discard all unnecessary items.

Out of sheer hysteria many of us throw things into the suitcase or the car at the last minute because we think we "might need" them. Careful planning makes travel a lot less hectic.

If you are going camping take along a well-stocked medicine chest and do not forget those wonderful insect-repellent products.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Tricks in Camping," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 69 to Josephine Lowman, in care of this newspaper.

SMALL GROUP WOMEN DENTISTS IN PROVINCE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Irene Glasgow of New Westminster is one of only five women dentists in British Columbia. She says she can't understand why dentistry should be regarded by some people as an unusual occupation for a woman.

Attending the annual B.C. Dental Association convention, she said about 80 per cent of the dentists in her native Lithuania, which she left eight years ago, are women.

Included among the five dentists in B.C. is Dr. Daphne Gill, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Gill, Cadboro Bay Road, who has an office in Nanaimo.

Sweet Voices of Boy Choristers Accompany Miss Sinnott to Altar

Met at the west door of Christ Church Cathedral by Dean Brian Whitlow and boy choristers, bride Miss Patricia Ruth Evelyn Sinnott walked to strains of "Praise My Soul the King of Heaven" in procession to the high altar for her marriage to Lieut. William Sibbald Wilson, Saturday afternoon.

Pink gladioli, calla lilies and peonies were placed at the altar, while at the chancel rail and through the cathedral, summer flowers in shades of pink and white, to complement the gowns of the bridal party, had been arranged by Mrs. Peter G. Barr.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Sinnott, Dereen Place. She was radiant in an imported gown of heavy ivory satin with moulded bodice and long, fitted sleeves tapering over the wrists. A soft oval neckline was accented by deep folds of the lustrous satin and delicately jewelled embroidery. The fullness of the belt skirt featuring clusters of French hand-made roses swept into a graceful cathedral train. The bride's full-length veil, belonging to Miss M. B. Hearn, was of 200-year-old Honiton lace. Her only jewelry was a strand of cultured pearls and pearl and gold earrings, the gift of the groom. Pink rapture roses and sprays of pale pink stocks were in her bouquet.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Eric Leary; bridesmaids, Miss Louise Hamilton, RN, of Vancouver and Miss Marilyn Selkirk, and junior bridesmaid, Miss Adele Sinnott, cousin of the bride, were gowned in flamingo shade pure silk dresses designed with softly folded V-necklines and sleeves gathered to the elbow. The circle skirts were bouffant. Picture hats of starched net were sprinkled with seed pearls, and their kid pumps and wrist-length gloves were a delicate shell pink. All carried sabre-shaped bouquets of carnations.

Flower girl, Katherine Macfarlane, West Vancouver, wore a Kate Greenaway frock of pure silk in shell pink. The bodice was styled with rounded neckline and puff sleeves, while the full floor-length skirt was posed over crinolines. She wore a Juliet cap of seed pearls on her golden curls, and carried a basket of tiny pink rosebuds.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson, Toronto, Ont., had Lieut. W. A. C. Crew as best man, while Capt. T. W. MacDonald, MM, Capt. A. J. Mitchell, Lieut. D. J. E. Bamford, Lieut. T. E. Ball, Lieut. H. J. Traynor, Lieut. R. E. Werry and Mr. Blair Wilson ushered guests to pews marked with white stocks and pink daisies.

When the wedding party left the altar for the vestry, the hymn "Love Divine" was sung, followed by an excerpt from S. S. Wesley's "Blessed be the God and Father of Our Lord Jesus Christ" by the boy choristers under the direction of Graham Steed, FRCO.

As the newlyweds passed beneath swords of the military guard of honor formed by brother officers of the groom under the command of Maj. J. L. McCulloch, CD, a full peal of bells was heard. The bells also rang on arrival of the bride at the cathedral.

A reception was held in the Officers' Mess of the Queen's Own Rifles, Camp Gordon Head. Guests were received in front of an embankment of pennies, stocks, snapdragons and pyrethrum. Assisting the newlyweds were the bride's parents and Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. W. H. V. Matthews.

Dr. W. H. Hickman proposed the toast to the bride. The four-tier cake cut with the groom's sword centred a polished table and was flanked by lighted candles in silver candelabra.

The newlyweds travelled by air to Harrison Hot Springs Hotel for their honeymoon. The new Mrs. Wilson chose for her going-away outfit an Italian silk costume in honey shade. Her plateau hat of straw was detailed with cherries and her accessories were en tone. To her Russian squirrel cape stole she pinned a green orchid corsage.

Secret Khrushchev Text Published by Washington

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev in the speech which set off the Soviet downgrade-Stalin campaign accused the late Russian premier of "intolerance, brutality and abuse of power."

BACKACHE May be Warning

Backache is often caused by lax kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest or that tired-out and heavy-headed feeling may soon follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills now.

Khrushchev, the Communist party boss and strong man of the collective leadership which took over in the Kremlin behind Stalin, made the speech Feb. 25 at the 20th Communist party congress in Moscow.

Portions of it had come to light before, but a full 25,000-word version, released here today by the state department, went beyond the language previously attributed to Khrushchev.

The translation shows that in addition to general accusations, Khrushchev specifically accused Stalin in the murder and torture of old Red comrades.

"SICKLY SUSPICIOUS"
The old Soviet leader, Khrushchev charged, "used extreme methods and mass repressions at a time when the revolution was already victorious."

"Stalin was a very distrustful man, sickly suspicious," said Khrushchev who had worked for him and with him for many years. "He could look at a man and say 'Why are your eyes so shifty today?' or 'Why are you turning so much today and avoiding to look me directly in the eyes?'"

"Possessing unlimited power, he indulged in great wilfulness and choked a person morally and physically. A situation was created where one could not express his own will."

Khrushchev specifically put full blame on Stalin for the great and bloody purges carried out in Russia in the mid-1930s.

BERIA OUTSID SELF

Stalin, Khrushchev said, designated individuals as "enemies of the people" and the secret police headed by Lavrenty Beria—who was purged by the present regime two years ago—"outdid itself in proving the guilt of the arrested and the truth of materials which it falsified."

"And how is it possible," Khrushchev asked his party audience, "that a person confesses to crimes which he has not committed? Only in one way—because of application of physical methods of pressuring him, tortures, bringing him to a state of unconsciousness, deprivation of his judgment, taking away of his human dignity. In this manner were 'confessions' acquired."

Khrushchev also placed upon Stalin the blame for deficiencies in Russia's military defences. He said preparations could have been made in time because of warnings given to the Soviet government in the months before Nazi Germany marched into Russia in June, 1941.

Khrushchev said the Soviet government had been warned by Prime Minister Churchill that the Germans intended to attack Russia. He said a warning had come from the Soviet military attaché in Berlin, from the deputy military attaché, and from Sir Stafford Cripps, pre-war British ambassador to Russia.

"Had our industry mobilized properly and in time to supply the army with the necessary material our wartime losses would have been decidedly smaller," Khrushchev said.

PURGES PLANNED

Khrushchev accused Stalin of plotting against Vyacheslav Molotov, deputy premier and until two days ago Soviet foreign minister, and Anastas Mikoyan, the present Soviet trade minister. Khrushchev said that Stalin at the 19th party congress had suggested that "these old workers of our party" were guilty of "some baseless charges."

"Stalin evidently had plans to finish off the old members of the Politburo. He often stated that the Politburo members should be replaced by new ones."

"We can assume that this was also a design for the future annihilation of the old Politburo members and in this way cover for all shameful acts of Stalin, acts which we are now considering."

The text of the speech showed there was a "commotion in the hall" when Khrushchev read two letters held secret until then. One was from Lenin to Stalin, demanding an apology from Stalin for his rudeness to Lenin's wife.

Khrushchev quoted Lenin as describing Stalin in still another document as "excessively rude." Lenin was quoted as saying rudeness can be tolerated "among us Communists" but it "cannot be tolerated."

PRIME MINISTER ST. LAURENT

August Election PM's Answer?

BY VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Desirability of calling an immediate general election because of the upheaval in the Commons is receiving consideration by Prime Minister St. Laurent and his government.

The cabinet met in unusual session Saturday. Again Sunday some members of the cabinet conferred to consider government strategy for the ensuing week—a most critical one for the administration.

Dissolution this week would mean an election called during the week of Aug. 13.

“VERY UPSET”
Prime Minister St. Laurent is known to be very upset and gravely disturbed over the scenes witnessed in the Commons last week. He reportedly is prepared to dissolve the House if the Commons again shows signs of becoming a shambles.

The government would go to the voters presumably on the grounds that the actions of the opposition have made it impossible for the government to properly conduct the affairs of the country.

The government is concerned that the opposition's efforts may succeed in postponing passage of the Trans-Canada Pipe Line legislation until after June 7. There were reports today that some of the Conservative senators in the Upper House intend to stage a last ditch attempt to stall the bill. It has been taken for granted that the Senate would pass the bill with little or no difficulty.

The administration is also worried that the Progressive Conservatives and CCF, aroused by the government's heavy-handed tactics of last week, may decide to fight all government legislation for the remainder of the session. The inflammatory scenes of last week—Friday particularly—make it difficult for Mr. Speaker to control the House.

INTOLERABLE?
The government has to have funds voted by Parliament under an interim supply bill to be introduced this week. If the PCs and CCF buck that bill, the government may again have to resort to closure to get the legislation passed.

Prime Minister St. Laurent then may decide the situation has become intolerable and order dissolution.

There is a tenseness on Parliament Hill as the critical week begins.

The two opposition parties are convinced that the St. Laurent administration has “lost face” with the Canadian voters by the happenings in the House last week. They are not prepared for an election but they believe they will never have a better issue on which to appeal to the voters to turn out the government. They are anxious for a test at the polls.

The word has gone out to the Liberal, Conservative, CCF and Social Credit organizations to start preliminary preparations for a federal election. Holiday plans are cancelled. Extra staff was being advised to hold themselves in readiness. Initial steps to secure radio and TV time and to re-arrange advertising schedules were being taken.

There has been no election call yet—but the political organizations are taking no chances.

Censure Motion Before Commons

‘Defilement of Rules’ Charged to Beaudoin

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Drew demanded of Prime Minister St. Laurent that he dissolve Parliament and call an immediate general election.

Mr. Drew called for dissolution and the general election after blaming Mr. St. Laurent for having placed Speaker Rene Beaudoin in a position where he had become the “victim and casualty” of the Commons pipeline debate.

Earlier, speaking to his motion of censure on the speaker, Mr. Drew described as “defilement of our rules,” Mr. Beaudoin’s reversal of ruling on Friday.

Mr. Drew, opening Commons debate on his motion, referred to Mr. Beaudoin’s decision at the opening of Friday’s sitting.

“The Opposition leader said the Speaker had no right to withdraw Mr. Cameron’s motion from the consideration of the Commons. The Speaker on Thursday night had accepted the motion and in fact had ‘guided’ its framing by Mr. Cameron.”

CONFIDENCE LOST
On Friday, the Speaker had called an immediate vote on an appeal of his ruling against Mr. Cameron’s motion without hearing members who wanted to raise points of order or comment on “this completely strange device.”

“At that moment confidence in the Speaker disappeared in the minds of many members of the House,” Mr. Drew said.

Debate on the censure motion was the first business of the Commons as it started today’s sitting.

Mr. Beaudoin himself read the terms of the motion, then, without protest from any direction, Mr. Drew was allowed to begin speaking on it.

The motion asks that the Speaker be censured by the Commons because the House “no longer has any confidence in its president officer.”

“UTMOST REGRET”
Mr. Drew said he presented his motion with “full recognition of its seriousness. It indicated the nature of the tragedy in the Commons, he said.

The Speaker had been held in high regard and deep affection by most members. It was with the “utmost regret” on the part of Mr. Drew and others that the motion should be found necessary at this time.

Mr. Drew spoke at the House opening with the galleries jammed with spectators. Hundreds were turned away.

The government in essence yielded the floor to Mr. Drew. There was a prior motion under which the government could have gained the floor to ask for third and final reading of its pipeline bill.

FIRST OF KIND
The censure motion is the first of its kind in Canadian parliamentary history. If accepted by the House, it would mean the downfall of the 44-year-old speaker.

Mr. Drew’s motion in its entirety: “In view of the unprecedented action of Mr. Speaker in improperly reversing his own decision without notice and without giving any opportunity for discussion; (b) repeatedly refusing to allow members to address the House on occasions when the rules provide that they have the right to be heard; (c) subordinating the rights of the House to the will of the government, this House resolves that it no longer has any confidence in its president officer.”

The House was hushed as he began his remarks.

The opposition leader said that the motion would not be before the Commons “if it were not for the fact that continuing confidence in the office of the speaker and continuing confidence in the present speaker have been challenged by events of the last few days.”

Mr. Drew said there is “a very real sense of a breach” which has occurred between Speaker Beaudoin and many of the members.

QUEEN OFF TO SWEDEN; FROGMEN CHECK YACHT

STOCKTON-ON-TEES, Eng. (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh sailed from this northeast port tonight in the royal yacht Britannia for a three-day state visit to Sweden.

Their departure followed a lightning tour earlier today of Stockton and other nearby industrial towns, during which a massive security force threw a discreet protective net around the royal couple to protect them from Cypriot extremists.

Frogmen dived beneath the hull of the royal yacht Britannia to satisfy themselves that no time mechanisms had been attached to the vessel before the Queen sailed.

Mr. Norrie of the Irish Linen Shop, was calm, cool, and not very hopeful of a “big win” when interviewed this morning.

Last year Mr. Norrie was in Dublin on vacation, bought tickets there in his own name and those of all his family, and drew a blank.

Plane Joins Search In Farm Tragedy

By COLIN MacDONALD, Canadian Press Staff Writer

ERSKINE, Alta. (CP) — Farm families sought the safety of towns overnight and today in this east-central Alberta area while 20 RCMP, aided by two dogs and an aircraft, scoured the land for the person who, on Sunday shot and killed seven persons.

Police said they believe the killer is armed “and if he is still alive, may be dangerous.”

At least five families from the immediate area of the farm of John E. Clark, 41, Social Credit member of the Alberta legislature, where the slayings took place, spent Sunday night in Stettler, 130 miles southeast of Edmonton, fearful lest the killer come to their homes.

The Social Credit backbencher for Stettler constituency who has not been seen since Saturday, is wanted for questioning by the police in connection with the multiple murder.

Found dead, shot through the head with bullets from a 22-calibre rifle, were:

Mrs. Clark, 36;
The four Clark children—Jeanne, 8; Ross, 7; Ann, 5; and Linda, 4;
George Anderson, 20, of McLennan, Alta., the Clark’s hired man;
Bill Olah, 30-year-old Royal Canadian Navy sailor from Medicine Hat, Alta., on leave from Montreal.

The gruesome discovery was made Sunday forenoon by a neighbor, G. M. (Pete) Parrott.

Dr. Robert Zender said the shootings occurred between 9 and 10 a.m. Sunday. The bodies were found by Parrott about 10:30 a.m.

Reconstructing the crime, police presented this theory: Anderson rose about 7 a.m. and went out to work. The four children got up shortly after and dressed. They began making their breakfasts and bowls of cereal were on the table. Other preparations were made in the kitchen. Then the slayings took place.

Three blood stains in the grass at various points in the yard indicate three children were killed outside, police said. One blood spot was inches away from the front southeast of the Clark farm.

Dr. Zender said Mrs. Clark, three of the children and Anderson were dead when police arrived. Four-year-old Linda died within 10 minutes of their arrival, before she could be moved. Olah died soon after being taken to the hospital in Stettler, 17 miles to the southeast of the Clark farm.

All seven had been shot once through the head, though Dr. Zender said one victim may have been shot more than once. He did not say which victim. He said the bodies of Mrs. Clark and the children bore powder burns.

There was no sign of a struggle in the faded-yellow, two-story frame farmhouse that is almost obscured from the adjacent road by a high hedge around the freshly-cut lawn.

At the rear of the attractive, two-room house set atop a knoll overlooking Buffalo lake were three full milk cans. The cows in the adjoining barn had been milked. Beside the house were a new automobile and a truck belonging to Clark.

SHOT IN SLEEP
Olah, in an upstairs bedroom, and Mrs. Clark, in her downstairs room, apparently were shot as they slept, an officer said. The fourth child was shot in the house.

It was not determined whether Anderson heard the shooting and ran to the house or accidentally stumbled into the death chamber. Police said there were indications he walked into the building through the back door and was shot through the head as he approached the living room.

Was Campaigning in Saskatchewan
The big farm—almost two sections of land—has been the home of Clark, part-time school teacher and farmer, for most of his 41 years. It was there that he planned the campaign that brought him election to the legislature in 1952 and re-election in 1955.

It was from there, too, that he left two weeks ago to take part in behalf of Social Credit in the Saskatchewan election campaign. He was to have gone back to Saskatchewan June 1 but did not make his scheduled appearance.

Inspector Laberge said a single-shot, 22-calibre rifle borrowed from an uncle by Clark some time ago was located but that it was not the gun used in the slayings.

The multiple slaying was among the most gruesome in western Canada in recent years. It recalled that of last July in Melville, Sask., when five members of a farm family were slain one by one during a family dispute. The convicted slayer, John Feltlock, was sentenced to life imprisonment for manslaughter.

CYPRIOT TERRORIST ORGANIZATION CRACKED
LONDON (UP) — Cyprus Governor Sir John Harding began crucial talks today on the future of the island colony. He was shielded from possible Cypriot assassination attempts by a bodyguard of six armed detectives.

His talks with Prime Minister Anthony Eden and Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd began on the announcement that British troops have cracked Cyprus’ small but deadly underground organization, EOKA, with the arrest of 17 of its leaders.

Youth, 18, Shot in Back, Plays Possum, Gets Police
NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — An 18-year-old youth, shot in the back and left for dead by Cyprus terrorists, crawled into a church and lit candles to summon police to the scene of an ambush.

A member of the British security forces was killed in the attack.

Two members of the security forces were walking with the youth, son of a third security trooper, when the attack came near Britain’s 113,000,000 military base at Dhekelia. In a spray of bullets one man fell dead. The other escaped.

PRAYER FOR TODAY
O GOD we pray today for those whom we have set in authority. May the recommissions and the bitterness be banished from their deliberations as they seek the general good of all. Let them have the wisdom and strength to do the right thing that we may not be shamed before posterity; through Jesus Christ. Amen.

down, an inner voice which I suppose was the voice of conscience began to speak to me.

It said that I had better give thought to returning to my own people and winding up the unfinished business of my marriage to Win. I did not want to listen but I did.

En route across the Pacific, I became ill. At Seattle it was decided that an operation was necessary. It was not a long operation, but an ordeal nonetheless and one more thing I had to go through alone in a strange city.

Still weak, I travelled across the continent by train. Win was now back in the United States. Having learned of my illness he insisted upon boarding my train in Chicago and accompanying me all the way to Washington. I never saw him again.

After my strength returned I delivered seriously into the business of securing my divorce.

A family friend advised me that in Virginia I could apply for a divorce after one year's residence and could obtain a decree on the grounds of desertion at the expiration of three years' separation from my husband. He estimated the total legal cost at around $300.

He recommended the little town of Warrenton.

So one hot June morning I took the early train to Warrenton and established myself in the Warren Green Hotel.

I lived in a single room, second floor back, 15 feet by 12, with faded flowered wallpaper, a high brass bed, mahogany bureau, enamelled washstand, large, black easy chair in cracked leatherette—a classic example of what my mother used to call inferior decorating.

Occasionally I went on to New York to shop. Mary Kirk and her French husband, Jacques Raffray, had a charming apartment in Washington Square. I used to stay with them.

Among their friends were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Simpson. Ernest was in his family's shipping business. His father, an Englishman, had come to the United States as a young man.

He had opened a shipping brokerage office, which had prospered, and had married an American woman. Ernest was born in New York and had been graduated from Harvard.

To prevent a complete obliteration of the British blood ties, Simpson Sr. had given his son the opportunity to learn to know England and Europe as well as the United States. The father had proposed that Ernest, on reaching 21, should choose for himself whether to be a British subject of an American citizen.

During the last year of the war, while still at Harvard, Ernest had crossed the Atlantic and joined the Coldstream Guards as a second lieutenant. He had come to love his father's country and he elected to become a British subject.

The Simpsons invited us to dinner in their home. Ernest was married to an American woman. Mary gave me to understand that their marriage was in difficulties and Ernest was turning to her circle of friends. Reserved in manner, yet with a gift of quiet wit; always well dressed, a good dancer, fond of the theatre, and obviously well read, he impressed me as an unusually well-balanced man.

I had acquired a taste for cosmopolitan minds, and Ernest obviously had one. I was attracted to him and he to me.

Reported Rift In CLC Denied By Council Head

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lloyd Whelan, president of the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council, says he knows of no rift in the newly-formed Canadian Labor Congress.

Mr. Whelan was commenting on reports published Saturday in Vancouver that more than 30 international trade unions are talking of withdrawing from the congress because of jurisdictional disputes.

The reports said the dispute is based on the ancient battle between industrial and craft-type unions.

Mr. Whelan said there has been an unnecessary amount of publicity on what he called the supposed differences between crafts and industrial unions.

He said the rank and file members of the 1,000,000-member CLC would not stand for a break in the new labor congress. He said labor is determined to stay united.

MARBLE CHAMPION—Lady Norah Docker, women's marble champion of Britain, is shown here as she won title, kneeling on gold-brocaded silk cushion.

TO GET HUSBAND'S JOB BACK

'Good Old Norah' Works On BSA Shareholders

LONDON (UP) — Battling Norah Docker announced today she was sending glamorous photographs of herself to 17,000 stockholders in an effort to win back her husband's job as head of a $75 million company.

Lady Docker, the colorful and flamboyant wife of Sir Bernard Docker, said she would fight back "even if it costs me the last sequin of my last dress." Sir Bernard was fired last week as head of the gigantic Birmingham Small Arms Corporation.

Today she began writing letters to the 17,000 BSA stockholders, enclosing a photograph showing her in a low cut dress with a three-strand string of pearls around her neck. The picture showed the 49-year-old Lady Docker looking pert and attractive.

The letters were the first step in the Docker campaign to win back the job. Docker wants to call a meeting of the BSA stockholders but to do that he must have the support of ten per cent of them.

"The average person has always been for me," Lady Docker said. "Even when I have attended film previews I have heard the shout go up 'Good Old Norah.' It gave me such a wonderful feeling—just here." She touched her heart. Lady Docker took a personal interest in her husband's business because of reports it was one of her expense accounts that helped him lose his job. She submitted a bill for nearly $15,000 worth of clothes while introducing a new model Daimler in Paris. Docker had to pay it himself.

Robbery Suspects Nabbed in Strait

Jefferson County Sheriff Miles Brown and deputies joined the coast guard in boarding the small sailing boat.

Search of the vessel disclosed $4,935, Brown reported. Most of it was in currency and banded with labels bearing the stamp of the Lincoln branch of the Puget Sound National Bank of Tacoma, the sheriff said. No weapons were found.

Pirates lead --For 2 Hours

Pittsburgh Buccs Real Surprise in NL; Yankees Lose Pair to Tigers

By The Associated Press

For 145 golden minutes, the giddy Pittsburgh Pirates led the National League Sunday afternoon before losing the second half of a doubleheader.

Although Bobby Bragan's upstarts finished the day six percentage points behind Milwaukee, it would take a brave man to predict they won't hit the top again.

The fired-up Pirates, whose startling rise from the depths of the cellar has excited the nation, actually lead Milwaukee by half a game in the won-and-lost figures. Due to a difference in total games played during this rainy spring: 40 by Pittsburgh, 33 by Milwaukee, the Braves hold the edge in percentages.

When Pittsburgh edged Milwaukee 3-1 in Sunday's first game it marked the first time they had been in first place since June 16, 1948, when they shared the lead with the Boston Braves. A two-run up-rising in the sixth broke up a tight battle between Roy Cullen, getting his first start after 15 games in the bullpen, and Milwaukee's Ray Crone.

BELL HIT 11TH
Pittsburgh almost pulled out the second game against Bob Buhl but finally bowed 4-3. The defeat was charged to Vernon Law, who gave up all Milwaukee's runs.

Elsewhere in the National, Cincinnati remained in their place by splitting two with New York Giants. A pair of two-run homers by Frank Robinson and Ray Jablonski set up the Redlegs' opening victory 7-3 but the Giants fought off a late spurt to save the second 4-3, despite two homers by Gus Bell, who hits hit 11 this season.

Old teammates took turns working out on their former buddies at St. Louis. After Murry Dickson, an ex-Phil, pitched the Cardinals to a 2-0 edge over the Phils' Robin Roberts, the Phils came back for an even break 9-3 behind Harvey Haddix, an ex-Cardinal.

YANKS LOSE PAIR
Brooklyn awoke from its Chicago slumber after losing three straight to the cellar team and knocked off the Cubs 4-3.

The American League "runaway" became more of a pennant race when Detroit dumped the leading New York Yankees twice, 6-3 and 7-4 in 10 innings. The results cut the Yankees' lead to four and one-half games over Chicago, which took over second by thumping Baltimore 12-0 and 9-2.

Marlene's Sub-Par Finish Worth $1,350

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Mrs. Marlene Bauer Hage packed $1,350 top prize money into her duffel bag today and shoved off on the next leg of the lady pros' spring tour after staging a whirlwind finish Sunday to win the 72-hole Dodge women's invitational golf tournament.

The Sarasota, Fla., swatter recorded the only sub-par back nine score of the four-day tourney as soggy, water-logged Churchill Valley Country Club by firing a one-under-mens-par 33.

Her sparkling 33, paired with a first nine 38, gave Mrs. Hage a final round card of 71 and a total of 293. She breezed home five strokes ahead of her sister, Alice Bauer, Asheville, N.C., and U.S. women's open champion Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay.

Mounties Split With Padres

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—San Diego defeated Vancouver 7-2 in the first game of a Pacific Coast League doubleheader Sunday, with Arnie Atkins striking out six in his pitching debut with the Padres.

Vancouver won the second game, 3-2. Reliever Ryne Duren checked a last-inning Padre threat to save the mound credit for Fred Baczewski.

Solarium Corner

Top prize this year in the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association Solarium Derby, co-sponsored by the Times, is a 1956 Ford Fairlane sedan.

Tickets for the annual derby, to be held July 22, cost $1 and are available to both members and non-members of the VSIAA. All proceeds from the derby are turned over to the Queen Alexandra Solarium and its work for crippled children.

Tickets may be obtained from Stewart Pringle, who has been connected with VSIAA for four years, and has been on the derby committee for the past three years.

Born and raised in Victoria, Stewart's job in the insurance line doesn't give him as much time as he would like to devote to fishing. He is married and has six children. Those wanting tickets may phone him at 4-4067.

He'll tell you how he won the main derby prize a few years ago.

(BB PLUS) "HILDA CRANE"

(Royal)—Until it reaches its climax—20th-Century-Fox's "Hilda Crane" is an absorbing drama. But only the very sentimental of the naïve could swallow the pill of happiness at the end.

Hilda—played tautly by Jean Simmons—is a girl who has lost her way during her walk through life, treading the paths of Independence and Initiative only to discover, too late, they were what Victorian writers delighted to call Prigmore.

After two unsuccessful marriages Hilda decides it's high time to get off the by-ways and seek a quiet home and kids on Respectability Street. Rich Guy Madison offers to escort her. But Guy's mama, Evelyn Varden, digs up a few statistics, viz: Hilda drank too much in college; she lived with her first husband before marrying him and similar quaint goings-on. Nonetheless, Hilda goes through with the wedding because Guy, who has learned all from mother, is a right guy.

Unfortunately, mama, always feigning heart trouble, dies suddenly while the wedding is in progress and Guy is so upset, blaming himself for the tragedy, that he neglects his bride to an unbelievable degree. She, in her fear and remorse, hits the bottle, and takes up with old flame Jean Pierre Aumont, gay author and lecturer who considers love has more ring without rings. When hubby, who as yet has to kiss the bride, becomes upset because another man is "quite willing" to Hilda rushes home and gobbles up half a bottle of sleeping pills.

Now if they had quietly pulled the curtain there "Hilda Crane" might have emerged as a play with something to say.

But they didn't. And it hadn't.

NEW "ASK ANDY" AWARD

Gordon Head Student Wins Fine Pictured Encyclopedia

First winner of the new prize offered in the "Ask Andy" feature which appears daily on the Times comic page was Ronnie Hillsden, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hillsden, 4424 Torquay Drive.

The new award for the first question is a 15-book set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia.

Ronnie's question on how a mongoose can kill a poisonous snake is answered by Andy on page 10 today. He is a Gordon Head School student.

The encyclopedia was presented to Ronnie by Times managing editor Leslie Fox and Fred Sturgess, president of Sturgess Distributors of Vancouver, the Canadian distributor of the books.

It is a Canadian edition of the encyclopedia especially issued for schools and youngsters in Canada, and is profusely illustrated with both color and black and white pictures.

Billy Rose Weds Joyce Mathews

NEW YORK (AP)—Showman Billy Rose and former showgirl Joyce Mathews were married Saturday in a civil ceremony in the home of comedian Abe Burrows.

The ceremony was performed by Justice Samuel Gold, of Manhattan supreme court. Rose's best man was Ben Hecht, the writer.

A score of guests witnessed the brief ceremony, the fourth marriage for 36-year-old Miss Mathews and the third for Rose, who is 56.

Young Quizzers Divide $64,000

Little Negro Girl Adds $32,000 To Previous $16,000 in Winnings

NEW YORK (UP)—Two 12-year-old spelling experts divided a television quiz program's top $64,000 prize Sunday night without answering any questions.

Andy Douglass of Greenwich, Conn., and Gloria Lockerman of Baltimore, who had tied last week for the winner-take-all prize, each received $32,000. Producers of the "$64,000 Challenge" quiz program waived a contest rule and divided the money between them.

Andy and Gloria were scheduled to compete in one more spelling bee last night after they tied for the top prize last week. The show's rules provided that if they tied a second time they would split the money.

But producers of the show decided to split the money between the two expert spellers without the second spell-off because the contestants were children.

Andy, who lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Douglass, smiled broadly. When he was asked what he planned to do with the money he said: "I think I'll just look at it for a while."

Gloria, a 10th-grade Negro student, who had won $16,000 on the "$64,000 Question" program several months ago, could only nod and stare at the cheque when asked if she was happy.

Good morning...
I'm your Census Taker

When I call at your home during the next few weeks I will have only a few simple questions—the name, age and marital status of those living at your address. If you live on a farm, there are some additional questions about acreage, crops, livestock and equipment.

The information you give me will be kept in strict confidence. Every Census worker has taken an oath of secrecy. By Act of Parliament, the personal information gathered by the Census about individual Canadians can be used only for general overall statistics. It cannot be disclosed to any government agency or private organization.

Canada is taking count to keep up with her rapid growth. Census facts are required to meet and plan overall national needs—schools, public utilities, welfare services, farm and industrial production, employment.

The 1956 Census—the essential measure of Canada's growth.

It's a big job—your cooperation will help us do it quickly and accurately.

Every census taker carries this official identification card to show that he or she has been appointed by the Government of Canada to help take the Census. Ask to see it.

Model Plane Fans Plan New Club

A meeting of model aircraft builders June 23 will try to re-establish Victoria Model Aircraft Club after a four-year lapse.

Leader of the movement is Bud George, for 15 years a prominent model plane enthusiast and former president of the organization.

He said the group would probably concentrate on setting a new model plane speed record for Canada. The former club held a Canadian record of 133 miles an hour.

An unofficial group of model flyers has been gathering on Lansdowne Field for flying sessions. Most are teenagers and adults, but the youngest is 10-year-old Geoffrey Titterton.

Planes have gasoline or alcohol-burning engines and are controlled by a "B" string, or hand-manipulated set of control cables.

'Put Princess To Work' Says Paper

LONDON (BUP)—A London newspaper suggested Sunday that Princess Margaret and the happy-go-lucky Duke of Kent ought to get jobs and go to work. It said the princess would do fine as Canada's next governor-general.

"Find the princess a man-sized job," the Sunday Graphic headlined its advice.

"Must we let hidebound thinking and fuddy-duddy advice fence her in?" the paper asked. "In a first rank job she would find her own fulfillment and at least friends of her own choosing."

"Given the word tomorrow, Canada would jump at the chance of inviting her to be next governor-general. So would Australia."

"Princess Margaret in Ottawa for three years would give a new look, new warmth and life to the ties between the Old Country and the New World."

OUR VERY OWN GARDENING GUIDE

(WHAT TO DO WHEN THE RAINS COME EDITION)

Rain is water falling in drops from the clouds, as any dictionary reader can plainly see. But more than that, rain is the Gardener's best friend.

Especially when the water falling in drops from the clouds chooses to drop during the Gardener's day off from the office.

When this salubrious situation occurs (as it did this past weekend) the Gardener arises, peers through the window, and says as follows to his wife:

"Oh, shucks, tush, and gracious me," says the Gardener. "What a disappointment."

"Hm?" says the Gardener's wife, not being yet fully awakened.

"Today," explains the Gardener, "I had planned to be up and about at an early hour, the better to weed, hoe, cultivate, and titivate our garden."

"Fnnff," says the Gardener's wife, non-committantly.

"But what do I see when I gaze through the window?" says the Gardener. "I see naught but water falling in drops from the clouds. One cannot garden when it is raining," the Gardener goes on.

"In fact," says the Gardener, as he climbs back into bed and pulls the covers over his head, "one cannot even water the garden when it is raining."

"Fllmmp," says the Gardener's wife.

"And, if this happy situation would only maintain itself, our thesis—to wit, rain is the Gardener's best friend especially on his day off—would be self-explanatory.

Unfortunately, however, there are inherent dangers for the Gardener, even when it is raining.

Just as the Gardener is dozing off into blissful slumber, his wife abandons her "Fnnff" and "Fllmmp" in favor of saying as follows:

"It is too bad it is raining and you cannot work in the garden but it may be just as well how about cleaning out the attic fixing the little light in the refrigerator getting rid of the old newspapers and magazines and oh yes the handle on the cool cupboard doesn't handle didn't you say you'd take the squeak out of the board in front of the kitchen stove the first rainy day and the vacuum needs un-vacuuming..."

To which the Gardener replies (if he is a wise Gardener): "Zzzzzzz-mmpm."

Thus the day during which water drops from the clouds passes peacefully for the Gardener.

Until the moment when the rain ceases. And at this time, even the wisest Gardener may lose everything he gained from the rain.

Because the Gardener's wife is apt to remark: "Now the rain has stopped, let us take a little walk around the garden."

And if the Gardener agrees, the Gardener has had it.

The Gardener's wife is quick to point out how wonderful the soil smells after the rain, how soft it is, and how easy it is to remove weeds from soft, sweet-smelling soil.

"If you will just pull out that little, teeny-weeny bit of chickweed," says the Gardener's wife.

So the Gardener does, and thus commits himself.

When he pleads for guacese on account of darkness, the Gardener's wife obligingly produces a flashlight.

There is nothing to save the Gardener but more water falling in drops from the clouds.

Better he should have stood in bed.

'I HOPE, I HOPE, I HOPE'

Juan de Fuca, here I come, says distance swimmer Marilyn Bell, conqueror of Lake Ontario and English Channel. But Marilyn isn't suffering from over-confidence, as hopeful oversized note indicates. (CP Photo.)

SWIM ATTEMPT HAILED

Double Jackpot For Marilyn?

Saturday's announcement that Toronto's Marilyn Bell will try Juan de Fuca Strait in late August was hailed today as certain to make the summer of 1956 "the biggest swim year yet."

In addition to the Bell swim, the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce will go ahead with its plans to raise between $10,000 and $15,000 for a mass swim about the same time. The fund is to be raised by a Dutch auction on radio station CKDA and local pledges.

President Stickney Harris said so far as the Jaycees are concerned Marilyn can swim for their jackpot as well, if she goes at the same time.

Marilyn has been guaranteed $20,000 for her attempt, with a $10,000 bonus if she makes it. The Toronto Telegram and Victoria Times are co-sponsors of her effort along with Weekend Magazine.

Several Victoria and other independent swimmers are proceeding with their own swim plans.

Most local reaction to the announcement of Marilyn's swim is loud in its praise, particularly as a means of publicizing Victoria.

"Wonderful!" was publicity commissioner George Warren's comment. "It's the best piece of publicity the city has ever had."

"The people who initiated it should be complimented." Added YMCA swim coach Archie McKinnon: "We'll get a million dollars in publicity for it."

"The reason they've asked Marilyn Bell is because she's the top star. It will keep the swim completely red-hot. "If you're the top star, you get the top prize, and she didn't get there the easy way," he said in answer to critics of the sponsorship deal.

"CHANNEL 'STEAL'" "If we can keep this thing alive, we can steal the publicity from the English Channel," said the former Olympic swimming coach and Florence Chadwick's coach in her 1954 strait try.

"Florence Chadwick put this strait swim on the map and in newspapers all over the world," he added.

Jaycee president Stickney Harris said:

MASTER OF ARTS DEGREE was awarded Beryl Moya Ann Martin, 758 Humboldt, Saturday at St. Louis University. Miss Martin, whose field of study in medical social work, gained her BA degree at UBC in 1954.

Body Identified As F. E. Foss; Probe Continues

The U.S. Coast Guard has tentatively identified the body of a man found washed up on a beach in the San Juan Islands Friday as that of F. E. Foss, believed to be a Canadian.

RCMP here are working with American authorities in an effort to establish exact identity. Clothes on the body bore labels from Victoria and other Canadian cities.

The man's estimated age was between 20 and 30. He had been in the water from six to eight weeks.

"CALLER" AT KINSMEN GIGANT BINGO tonight will be Bill Ingham, who operates the school staff and Cpl. G. Kent, RCMP.

Bingo Tonight Has $15,000 In Prizes

More than $15,000 worth of prizes, including two cars, will be awarded tonight at the Victoria Kinsmen Club's mammoth bingo party being held in the Memorial Arena.

Activities get under way at 7:45 p.m., and at latest reports 5,800 tickets had been sold. The arena will seat 7,500 players.

Money collected will go to Kinsmen charities and other club projects.

Prizes will be drawn by seat numbers. Included among these will be a mink stole, a deep freeze, a complete camping outfit for two and an entire home workshop.

In addition 75 door prizes will be given away, including such items as binoculars.

The giant project involves 275 people to run the games, including 50 boys from the De Molay organization and 50 girls from the Victoria Girls' Drill Team. The remainder are made up of volunteer workers from Kinsmen.

Kinsmen held a similar bingo about a month ago which drew the largest indoor crowd ever seen in Victoria—7,500 persons.

RCAF Recruit Depot Opened on Yates St.

The new RCAF recruiting depot, 865 Yates, was officially opened at 10 a.m. today by Wing Commander W. K. Carr, Ottawa, assistant director of personnel training, RCAF.

His first duties were to swear in the first unit recruit, 17-year-old Paul Davies, a former Victoria High student, who lives at 2208 Fernwood, and to enroll in the regular RCAF reservist Eleanor Lee, 18, 3118 Doncaster, a former Esquimalt High girl.

W/C Carr said that since the RCAF recruiting unit opened its doors Nov. 1, 1950, in the old Government Street location, 2,749 recruits had been enrolled.

Of these 464 were officers, 1,952 airman and 363 airwomen. Total number of applicants received was 10,610. Peak month to date was July, 1952, when 101 recruits were taken into the RCAF.

Air cadets enlisting totalled 337.

HIGH CALIBRE "Recruits we have obtained here are certainly as good as from any other part of the country," said W/C Carr. "Productivity is high. This is one of the better units."

Peace-time recruiting, he said, depended largely on public relations, and while money was spent on advertising careers in the RCAF, without good public relations much of this could be a waste.

Mr. Davies will be tested for trade aptitude at St. John's, Que., while Miss Lee, who has been trained in fighter control as a reservist since last January, has a choice of 27 other trades from which to select if she desires.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

FIRST RECRUITS at new RCAF manning depot here, Yates Street, were sworn in today by W/C W. K. Carr. Left to right are Paul Davies, Laurina Pellett, Eleanor Lee and W/C Carr.

Lake Race Track Hopes Revived

200 Attend North Saanich Graduation

Many Speeches At Exercises

Approximately 200 persons attended graduation ceremonies on the weekend at North Saanich High School.

Graduates were Wendy E. Ashby, Flowalee Beers, George D. Braithwaite, Roy K. Brekke, Noel Coward, Marilyn L. Darks, Marion J. Eckert, William L. Gardner, Ethel L. Jahn, Marian E. McKay, Patricia A. McLellan, Luigi G. Pastro, Thomas G. Polson, Helen C. Ross and Gertrude E. Scrivner. Mrs. M. DeStrube, guest speaker, chose as her subject "On Being a Canadian." Other guest speakers were Dr. H. P. Johns, Saanich school inspector; James Helps, vice-chairman of the board of school trustees; L. Martin, president-elect of North Saanich High PTA; W. W. Gardner, who spoke on behalf of parents; C. C. Inkster of the school staff and Cpl. G. Kent, RCMP.

Student speakers were Georgette Scrivner, Patricia McLellan, Marian McKay, Marion Eckert, Marilyn Darks and Luigi Pastro, all of whom proposed votes of thanks. Lloyd Gardner looked into the crystal ball for the class prophecy while George Braithwaite read the last will and testament.

MOST APPRECIATED

Valdettorian Helen Ross, in thanking the school on behalf of the grads, said that all of them realized the importance of the textbook material that had been imparted to them, but she felt that the character training and the instruction on how to use and develop the mind were the two factors of education at North Saanich that students most appreciated.

Following the ceremony supper was served to graduates and guests under the joint convener-ship of Miss M. Sinclair of the school and Mrs. G. McNeill of the PTA. Mrs. J. Helps and Miss Netta Jones presided at the tea and coffee urns.

The graduation dance attracted a large crowd of young people. Arrangements were in the hands of the PTA with Mrs. T. H. Johnston as dance convener.

During the evening, presentations were made to Mrs. A. Lee, Grade XII home room teacher, and to D. E. Breckenridge, school principal.

Seaman Admits Hitting Constable

Pleading guilty to a charge of assaulting a police officer, Gordon Frank Foster, a seaman, today was remanded by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court until Tuesday for sentence.

Foster admitted punching Constable Raymond Short in the nose after knocking a man through a plate glass window.

Another seaman, Nick Shechuk was fined $50 for obstructing a Saanich police officer.

Saanich May Be Asked To Hold Vote—Edgelow

A Vancouver horse racing syndicate is still interested in development of a race track near Elk and Beaver Lakes and may ask Saanich to hold a plebiscite on the matter following settlement of current litigation.

Ald. Geoffrey I. Edgelow made the disclosure to a city council public works committee meeting today as the committee discussed renewal of farm land leases in that area.

ISLAND TURF

The firm is thought to be Island Turf Ltd., which negotiated with the city last year for use of the land.

The area is owned by the city but as it lies within Saanich boundaries, that municipality levied taxes against it for a local improvement pipeline project.

The city refused to pay on the basis the land had been granted Victoria on a tax-free basis by the province as a watershed.

Saanich sold the site for unpaid taxes last year to Elk Lake Ratepayers' Association. The city has a year to pay arrears and regained possession. However, council decided to fight the taxation in court and the matter has been in the hands of W. H. M. Haldane, QC, for several months.

YEAR-TO-YEAR

In the meantime, the works committee renewed a lease of 40 acres for farm purposes to B. R. Quick, but on a year-to-year basis, in case the race track question is settled at an early date.

Other local interests may develop a race track on the site of the old Colwood track before the Saanich-Victoria wrangle reaches the courts.

Colwood and District Chamber of Commerce has asked Department of National Defence, which owns the land, for the right to build a track there.

Defence Minister Ralph Campney said recently he could see no objection to the land being put to that use, but no official word has been received from Ottawa.

Slow Zones Possible For Victoria Churches

Some Victoria churches soon may be able to establish slow traffic zones with cooperation of city council and police.

Council public works committee today informed Centennial United Church on Gorge Road that removable 15-mile per hour "Church Zone" signs are being considered.

The signs, if council approves, will be provided by the churches according to city standards, and will be portable. They will be set out before church services and removed when the services end.

The experiment follows requests by at least five large city churches, most of them in the Quadra-Pandora area, for a supervised traffic patrol system. Centennial United has asked pedestrian crosswalks be provided in view of a recent serious accident.

The committee felt, however, the crosswalks would have little value except for two hours on Sunday and would slow traffic on a secondary highway.

Jack Smith Shows Way For Rain-Soaked Skippers

Fair weather sailors were conspicuous by their absence Sunday as eight rain-soaked skippers drizzled through the annual Hein Bank race.

Heavy rain and light winds made the outward leg anything but pleasant, but a freshening breeze in the afternoon enabled all boats to fetch home on a single tack.

A Class winner—first across the line and first on adjusted time—was Jack Smith's eight-meter Reality, and second was Jack Middleton in Erin.

CD Board Gets Evacuation Plan

Final draft of the city's first overall evacuation plan went into the hands of Greater Victoria Civil Defence Control Board today for study and discussion.

Roger Peachey, CD co-ordinator who has guided preparation of the plan for 18 months, said the board would meet again next Monday at 11 a.m. The question of the plan's publication would be discussed.

For purposes of speedy evacuation in the event of emergency, the city has been split into sectors, each of which will follow a designated route from the city at the sound of an air alert.

Mr. Peachey reported to the board a vehicle for training ambulance drivers has been obtained by the CD group and will go into use shortly.

Ned Ashe in Mae D. was first in B.C. Class, followed by Red Start, with Frank Piddington of the RCNSA at the helm.

Only eight yachts were entered, half the usual number in weekend races. The course was to Salmon Bank and return, as Hein Bank has been restricted as a bombing range for U.S. forces.

On Saturday, RVYC junior skippers went down to defeat before a Maple Bay crew in an elimination race for the Sears Cup, international trophy.

Skipper Gerry Coleman and crew members Sandy Robinson and Bob Sherman won two out of three close races from Dave Cckenand, Ward Stephens and Tom Gibbons. Coleman and crew will represent Vancouver Island in further elimination races.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—It would be a favor if you would print a list of the postmasters general of Canada over the last quarter-century, stating whether French-speaking or English-speaking.—Mrs. E. H. A.

A.—Starting in 1931, they were as follows (with the title Hon. omitted and those from French-speaking Canada identified as F.C.): 1931, Arthur Sauve, F.C.; 1936, J. C. Elliott; 1939, C. G. Power, F.C.; 1941, W. F. Mulock; 1946, Ernest Bertrand, F.C.; 1949, Alphonse Fournier, F.C.; 1951, G. E. Rinfret, F.C.; 1953, Alcide Cote, F.C.; 1955, Hugues Lapointe, F.C.

Q.—During the bedlam in the House of Commons, shouts were heard that the opposition was being garrotted. What was meant?—A. B. F.

A.—In general garrotting means strangulation. In particular, a garrotte was a device invented in Spain for the execution of criminals. It consisted of a metal collar with a set screw in the middle of the back portion which when turned pressed increasingly against the neck until the spinal column was broken. The garrotte was used also in France during the Terror.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Downtown Stores Abounding With Items to Interest You

By PENNY SAVER

You'll find a strange and varied selection of items in today's column. It seems that interesting gadgets, goods and clothes of all sorts are arriving in dills and dabs, to keep the shoppers interested, of course. Grass clippers, certainly an item that many folks will be shopping for now that gardening weather is in full force, are selling for as low as $1.89. Sturdy and easily gripped wooden handles are polished, and are attached in such a way that they'll stay on.

There are a dozen and one jobs around the house that require you to kneel, and after an afternoon of washing floors or maybe painting kitchen chairs and such, your knees take on a rather battered and bruised look. A direct steal from the sporting goods shops are the household knee pads meant especially for you. They're of rubber, with corrugated front surface so that they won't slip on wet surfaces. These soft cushions will make the job to be done seem a lot easier. It's a good investment that will bring dividends of comfort. They're $2.10 a pair.

With summer parties increasing, we find that a light coat that will double for daytime and evening wear is a must. For over your full skirt, or as a complement for that new sheath, the corded duster coats I saw are perfect. In navy or black, they are fashioned with Chinese collars, full belted backs, and three-quarter cuffed sleeves. The price is surprising at $7.98.

Hopping back to the hardware goods for a moment, I'll tell you about bright chair and table glides that will fit all wood and metal furniture.

WHY GROW OLD?

Plan Carefully to Make Vacation More Enjoyable

At this time of year most folks get that far-away look as they dream of their summer vacations. Many of these dreamers bemoan the fact that their vacation is so short.

It is true that often it seems that the packing before and the unpacking after is the main part of a two-week vacation. These two points are held together by a few highlights in experience which happened in between. Once I took a 1,000-mile motor trip with my two young children. Afterward, looking back, I had no memory at all of driving through the countryside but only of getting in and out of the car to take care of their various needs.

There are many things you can do to make your vacation more restful and more enjoyable. In the first place, if you are going by car, be sure to have the family bus thoroughly checked as insurance against car trouble. Also be certain that your tires are adequate. It is sheer madness to start out on a pleasure trip with tires which will give you constant trouble, to say nothing of the danger of this procedure.

Plan carefully about the clothes you will take. Do not burden yourself with too many but see to it that you have the right kind. If you are going to a resort hotel write to the manager to find out what you will need if you do not know. If you are traveling to a different part of the country, write to the local weather bureau to find out what temperatures and weather conditions you are apt to run into.

The experienced traveler travels "light." Today there are so many combination clothes for women. There are all kinds of separates which can be combined in different ways for different occasions. There are crease-resistant materials and nylons and other garments which do not have to be ironed. Discard all unnecessary items.

Out of sheer hysteria many of us throw things into the suitcase or the car at the last minute because we think we "might need" them. Careful planning makes travel a lot less hectic.

If you are going camping take along a well-stocked medicine chest and do not forget those wonderful insect-repellent products.

Alberta MLA Sought; 7 Slain in His Home

By COLIN MACDONALD, Canadian Press Staff Writer

ERSKINE, Alta. (CP)—Farm families sought the safety of towns overnight and today in this east-central Alberta area while 20 RCMP, aided by two dogs and an aircraft, scoured the land for the person who on Sunday shot and killed seven persons.

Police said they believe the killer is armed "and if he is still alive, may be dangerous."

At least five families from the immediate area of the farm of John E. Clark, 41, Social Credit member of the Alberta legislature, where the slayings took place, spent Sunday night in Stettler, 130 miles southeast of Edmonton, fearful lest the killer come to their homes.

The Social Credit backbencher for Stettler constituency who has not been seen since Saturday, is wanted for questioning by the police in connection with the multiple murder.

Found dead, shot through the head with bullets from a 22-calibre rifle, were:

Mrs. Clark, 36;
The four Clark children—Jeanne, 8; Ross, 7; Ann, 5, and Linda, 4;
George Anderson, 20, of McLennan, Alta., the Clarks' hired man;
Bill Olah, 30-year-old Royal Canadian Navy sailor from Medicine Hat, Alta., on leave from Montreal.

The gruesome discovery was made Sunday forenoon by a neighbor, G. M. (Pete) Parrott.

Dr. Robert Zender said the shootings occurred between 9 and 10 a.m. Sunday. The bodies were found by Parrott about 10.30 a.m.

Reconstructing the crime, police presented this theory: Anderson rose about 7 a.m. and went out Continued on Page 2

PRIME MINISTER ST. LAURENT

August Election PM's Answer?

BY VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Desirability of calling an immediate general election because of the upheaval in the Commons is receiving consideration by Prime Minister St. Laurent and his government.

The cabinet met in unusual session Saturday. Again Sunday some members of the cabinet conferred to consider government strategy for the ensuing week—a most critical one for the administration.

Dissolution this week would mean an election called during the week of Aug. 13.

"VERY UPSET"

Prime Minister St. Laurent is known to be very upset and gravely disturbed over the scenes witnessed in the Commons last week. He reportedly is prepared to dissolve the House if the Commons again shows signs of becoming a shambles.

The government would go to the voters presumably on the grounds that the actions of the opposition have made it impossible for the government to properly conduct the affairs of the country.

The government is concerned that the opposition's efforts may succeed in postponing passage of the Trans-Canada Pipe Line legislation until after June 7. There were reports today that some of the Conservative senators in the Upper House intend to stage a last ditch attempt to stall the bill. It has been taken for granted that the Senate would pass the bill with little or no difficulty.

The administration is also worried that the Progressive Conservatives and CCF, aroused by the government's heavy-handed tactics of last week, may decide to fight all government legislation for the remainder of the session. The inflammatory scenes of last week—Friday particularly—make it difficult for Mr. Speaker to control the House.

INTOLERABLE?

The government has to have funds voted by Parliament under an interim supply bill to be introduced this week. If the PCs and CCF buck that bill, the government may again have to resort to closure to get the legislation passed.

Prime Minister St. Laurent then may decide the situation has become intolerable and order dissolution.

There is a tenseness on Parliament Hill as the critical week begins.

The two opposition parties are convinced that the St. Laurent administration has "lost face" with the Canadian voters by the happenings in the House last week. They are not prepared for an election but they believe they will never have a better issue on which to appeal to the electors to turn out to the polls.

They are anxious for a test at the polls.

The word has gone out to the Liberal, Conservative, CCF and Social Credit organizations to start preliminary preparations for a federal election. Holiday plans are cancelled. Extra staff is being advised to hold themselves in readiness. Initial steps to secure radio and TV time and to re-arrange advertising schedules were being taken.

There has been no election call yet—but the political organizations are taking no chances.

General Election Talk in Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent Monday gave notice of closure to be applied today in the final stage of Commons passage of the bitterly-fought gas pipeline legislation.

The Prime Minister earlier had charged that Opposition Leader Drew is seeking dissolution of Parliament to prevent the government's pipeline bill from becoming law.

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Drew demanded of Prime Minister St. Laurent that he dissolve Parliament and call an immediate general election.

Mr. Drew called for dissolution and the general election after blaming Mr. St. Laurent for having placed Speaker Rene Beaudin in a position where he had become the "victim and casualty" of the Commons pipeline debate.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, entering the debate on Mr. Drew's motion to censure Speaker Beaudin, defended the Speaker's actions during the last two uproar-filled days of the pipeline debate last week.

"No doubt you have had—and you still have—the affectionate consideration and regard of most honorable members," Mr. St. Laurent said to Speaker Beaudin, emphasizing the word "most."

The prime minister said the last few weeks have seen a firm determination by the Opposition "to have the will of the minority prevail over the will of the majority."

The Opposition had used points of order to cause delay and waste time.

Mr. St. Laurent then proceeded to outline what happened last Thursday and Friday when the Speaker's authority was challenged.

Peking was an ideal place for a woman with time on her hands and a secret sorrow in her heart.

I never made an analysis of the exact proportions of the sexes, but my impression is that the bachelors outnumbered the unmarried women by a ratio of at least 10 to one, and, considering the natural proclivity of the male, there were occasions when the ratio seemed nearer 1,000 to one.

In such a situation it was almost impossible for a woman, unless disguised by a hare-lip or the possession of two heads, to feel neglected or unwanted. To be sure, the incidence of honorable men with dishonorable intentions was undoubtedly higher than a Kansas Sunday school teacher of that period might knowingly have tolerated for long, but such perils, if prudently recognized in advance, are readily manageable.

Spring came. Then one quiet evening, watching the sun go

100 Evacuated as Flood Waters Threaten to Top Creston Dikes

CRESTON, B.C. (CP)—The worst was still to come along the swollen Kootenay river today with about 100 persons evacuated from their homes here and a reinforced contingent of soldiers working on the dikes with civilians.

Seventy-five more soldiers left Chilliwack by train Sunday night to join 75 already on flood duty here. In addition, there are 100 civilians on the job.

A four-man committee of civilians and army officers headed by Magistrate Guy Constable, secretary of the Creston dike commission, was established Sunday to co-ordinate flood control efforts.

The river had reached a level of 24.80 feet by Sunday night and there was a threat of rain. One official said a heavy rain-fall "could be disastrous."

NEAR DIKE TOPS

The river was about eight inches from the tops of the dikes and was expected to reach a crest Wednesday or Thursday.

Dikers have already used an estimated 15,000 sandbags to strengthen water-softened dikes. There are 35,000 more sandbags on hand and 40,000 more on order.

The most seriously threatened spot during the weekend was a 7,000-acre tract known as the Creston Reclamation Co. district.

To work. The four children got up shortly after and dressed. They began making their breakfasts and bowls of cereal were on the table. Other preparations were made in the kitchen. Then the slayings took place.

Three blood stains in the grass at various points in the yard indicated three children were killed outside, police said. One blood spot was inches away from the front steps of the house, another near the rear door and the third near a wood pile a few feet away from the house.

SHOT IN SLEEP

Ohah, in an upstairs bedroom, and Mrs. Clark, in her downstairs room, apparently were shot as they slept, an officer said. The fourth child was shot in the house.

It was not determined whether Anderson heard the shooting and ran to the house or accidentally stumbled into the death chamber. Police said there were indications he walked into the building through the back door and was shot through the head as he approached the living room.

Parrott, who leases his farm from Clark, told a simple story of his gruesome discovery: "I went in and found them. That's all there was to it. It wasn't nice. One was in the front room and five were in the bedrooms upstairs."

Dr. Zender said Mrs. Clark, three of the children and Anderson were dead when police arrived. Four-year-old Linda died within 10 minutes of their arrival, before she could be moved. Ohah died soon after being taken to the hospital in Stettin, 17 miles to the southeast of the Clark farm.

All seven had been shot once through the head, though Dr. Zender said one victim may have been shot more than once. He did not say which victim. He said the bodies of Mrs. Clark and the children bore powder burns.

There was no sign of a struggle in the faded-yellow, two-storey frame farmhouse that is almost obscured from the adjacent road by a high hedge around the freshly-cut lawn.

At the rear of the attractive, six-room house set atop a knoll overlooking Buffalo lake were three full milk cans. The cows in the adjoining barn had been milked. Beside the house were a new automobile and a truck belonging to Clark.

The big farm—almost two sections of land—has been the home of Clark, part-time school teacher and farmer, for most of his 41 years. It was there that he planned the campaign that brought him election to the legislature in 1952 and re-election in 1955.

It was from there, too, that he left two weeks ago to take part on behalf of Social Credit in the Saskatchewan election campaign. He was to have gone back to Saskatchewan June 1 but did not make his scheduled appearance.

Inspector Laberge said a single-shot, .22-calibre rifle borrowed from an uncle by Clark some time ago was located but that it was not the gun used in the slayings.

CYPRIOI TERRORIST ORGANIZATION CRACKED

LONDON (UP)—Cyprus Governor Sir John Harding began crucial talks today on the future of the island colony. He was shielded from possible Cypriot assassination attempts by a bodyguard of six armed detectives.

His talks with Prime Minister Anthony Eden and Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd began on the announcement that British troops have cracked Cyprus' small but deadly underground organization, EOKA, with the arrest of 17 of its leaders.

COMMONS

third and final reading of its pipeline bill.

FIRST OF KIND

The censure motion is the first of its kind in Canadian parliamentary history. If accepted by the House, it would mean the downfall of the 44-year-old speaker.

Mr. Drew's motion in its entirety:

"In view of the unprecedented action of Mr. Speaker in improperly reversing his own decision without notice and without giving any opportunity for discussion; (b) repeatedly refusing to allow members to address the House on occasions when the rules provide that they have the right to be heard; (c) subordinating the rights of the House to the will of the government, this House resolves that it no longer has any confidence in its presiding officer."

The House was hushed as he began his remarks.

The opposition leader said that the motion would not be before the Commons "if it were not for the fact that continuing confidence in the office of the speaker and continuing confidence in the present speaker have been challenged by events of the last few days."

Mr. Drew said there is "a very real sense of a breach" which has occurred between Speaker Beaudoin and many of the members.

Mr. Cameron's motion from the consideration of the Commons. The Speaker on Thursday night had accepted the motion and in fact had "guided" its framing by Mr. Cameron.

Mr. Drew said he presented his motion with full recognition of its seriousness. It indicated the nature of the tragedy in the Commons, he said.

The Speaker had been held in high regard and deep affection by most members. It was with the "utmost regret" on the part of Mr. Drew and others that the motion should be found necessary at this time.

Mr. Drew spoke at the House opening with the galleries jammed with spectators. Hundreds were turned away.

The government in essence yielded the floor to Mr. Drew. There was a prior motion under which the government could have gained the floor to ask for

Youth, 18, Shot in Back, Plays Possum, Gets Police

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)

An 18-year-old youth, shot in the back and left for dead by Cyprus terrorists, crawled into a church and lit candles to summon police to the scene of an ambush.

A member of the British security forces was killed in the attack.

Two members of the security forces were walking with the youth, son of a third security trooper, when the attack came near Britain's £13,000,000 military base at Dhekelia. In a spray of bullets one man fell dead. The other escaped.

The terrorists tied the youth's hands and shot him in the back. He pretended to be dead, and the terrorists fled.

TUGBOATS

The Coast Guard said six guns were tossed overboard after the Vagabond was spotted by the Vancouver-based Sea Lion, skippered by Capt. C. G. Tait.

The Vagabond was first reported heading for Mexico, but Capt. Tait recognized the wanted boat after its description had been broadcast by the RCAF rescue co-ordination centre in Vancouver.

Sheriff Miles Brown of Jefferson County, Wash., said the trio were taken from the Vagabond without resistance. He said the hunt for the boat—purchased last Tuesday for $1,950—began with the loose talk of a drunken sailor in a Seattle bar.

No charges were immediately laid, but the sheriff said the men face penalties for violation of parole.

Most of the money was banded with labels bearing the stamp of the Lincoln branch of the Puget Sound National Bank of Tacoma.
